

TEDDY THE TERRIBLE

The Criminal Insanity of Theodore Roosevelt

© 2019 M S KING

"History is indeed little more than the register of the crimes, follies and misfortunes of mankind."

Edward Gibbon, English historian (1737-1794)

From: *"The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire"

About the Author

M. S. King is a private investigative journalist and researcher based in the New York City area. A 1987 graduate of Rutgers University, King's subsequent 30 year career in Marketing & Advertising has equipped him with a unique perspective when it comes to understanding how "public opinion" is indeed scientifically manufactured.

Madison Ave marketing acumen combines with 'City Boy' instincts to make M.S. King one of the most tenacious detectors of "things that don't add up" in the world today. Says King of his admitted quirks, irreverent disdain for "conventional wisdom", and uncanny ability to ferret out and weave together important data points that others miss: "Had Sherlock Holmes been an actual historical personage, I would have been his reincarnation."

A few of King's other historical works, (see complete list at TomatoBubble.com) include:

- The Bad War: The REAL Story of World War II
- The War Against Putin: What the Government-Media Complex Isn't Telling You About Russia
- Planet Rothschild: The Forbidden History of the New World Order
- Napoleon vs the Old & New World Orders
- Genghis Monster
- St. Joseph of Wisconsin: The REAL Story of Senator Joe McCarthy

King's other interests include: the animal kingdom, philosophy, chess, cooking, literature and history (with emphasis on events of the late 19th through the 20th centuries).

Be sure to bookmark and follow King's popular website:
TomatoBubble.com

The Mind-Altering Internet Classics of Real History, Economics, Philosophy & Current Events

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	P. 7
SECTION 1: PRE-PRESIDENCY
Roots of the Roosevelt Dynasty	P. 12
A Sick & Sheltered Child	P. 14
The Dysfunctional Roosevelt Family	P. 15
TR Quits Law School to Become a Politician	P. 17
Wife & Mother Die on Same Day	P. 18
Runs for Mayor of New York City	P. 19
Appointed Police Commissioner of New York	P. 20
TR & Yellow Press Agitate for War Against Spain	P. 21
Appointed Asst. Secretary of U.S. Navy	P. 22
Sets Up False Flag Sinking of U.S.S. Maine	P. 24
Orders Navy to Prepare for War	P. 25
U.S. Starts War Against Spain	P. 25
Orders Attack on Spanish Fleet in Philippines	P. 26
Volunteers for War and Becomes Fake “War Hero” of San Juan Hill	P. 28
The “War Hero” Elected Governor of New York State	P. 30
Forced onto President McKinley as his Vice President	P. 31
McKinley Assassinated – TR Becomes President	P. 32
SECTION 2: PRESIDENCY
The Babbling President	P. 34
The Tyrannical “Trustbuster”	P. 35
The Butcher of the Philippines	P. 37
The Propaganda Myth of the “Teddy Bear”	P. 38
Incites Revolution in Colombia	P. 39
The Imperialist “Roosevelt Corollary”	P. 40
Upstages Niece at Her Wedding	P. 42
Stabs Anti-Communist Russia in the Back	P. 43
The Myth of Roosevelt the “Conservationist”	P. 45
Takes Over the Dominican Republic	P. 46
The Phony Food & Drug Act and Meat Inspection Act	P. 47
Proposes Nationalization of Marriage & Divorce Laws	P. 49
Calls for Marxist-Style Income and Inheritance Taxes	P. 50

Lays Foundation for the Federal Reserve System Scam	P. 53
Sends Intimidating “Great White Fleet” Around the World	P. 59
Mark Twain’s Stinging Condemnation of Roosevelt	P. 59
Roosevelt Endorses William Taft to Replace Him	P. 61
The Blustering Bully Verbally Abuses 15-Year Old Girl	P. 62
Sets Record for Issuing Most Executive Orders	P. 64
SECTION 3: POST-PRESIDENCY	P. 65
A “Big Game” Hunting Rampage in Africa	P. 66
Viciously Turns Against His Friend Taft	P. 69
Money Kings Recruit TR to Run as 3rd Party Spoiler	P. 71
Proposes Socialist Health Care System	P. 73
Stages Fake Assassination Attempt	P. 75
Causes Wilson to Win Presidency, Conservatives Outraged	P. 79
Rigs a Libel Lawsuit Against Conservative Newspaper	P. 80
Outbreak of War in Europe Excites Roosevelt	P. 83
Agitates for U.S. Entry Into War	P. 84
Plots With British Agent to Pressure Wilson Into War	P. 86
Wilson Deceives America Into World War I	P. 88
TR Asks to Lead Mounted Division Into Battle	P. 88
Accuses All Anti-War Americans of Being “Traitors”	P. 90
German-Americans Abused and Interned Due to War Hysteria	P. 93
TR’s Son Killed in War Which He Wanted So Badly	P. 95
Dies in His Sleep	P. 98
CONCLUSION	P. 101
OTHER BOOKS BY M S KING	P. 102
FOOTNOTES	P. 103

INTRODUCTION

Check any list of ‘great men’ of the 20th Century and you’re sure to find Theodore ‘Teddy’ Roosevelt ranked near the very top. He was the military hero of San Juan Hill who, later on, as president, became a “champion of the people.” TR – the Fake Historians assure us – in spite of his privileged upbringing, fought the big bad “capitalist” corporations of his own class in order to bring to the common man the “three C’s” of the “Square Deal” -- conservation of natural resources, control of corporations, and consumer protection.

To hear the academics and PBS describe it, one would almost come away with the impression that TR, as a volunteer leader of the “Rough Riders,” single-handedly defeated the Spaniards in 1898; built the Panama Canal with his own hands, and saved American meat eaters, workers, and consumers from “the excesses of unbridled capitalism.”

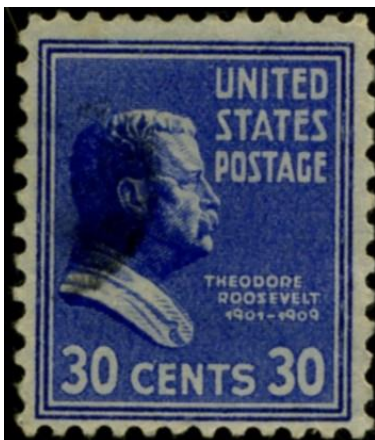

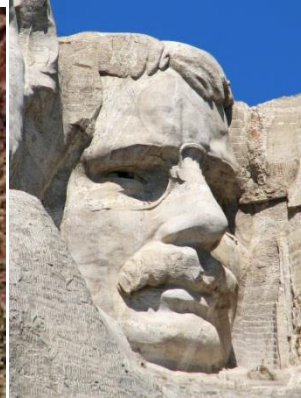

In remembrance of such noble attributes and great deeds, statues of St. Theodore can be found all over the USA – including that famous mug shot so idolatrously carved into the side of Mount Rushmore. Postage stamps bear his image; children’s books tell of his deeds; and schools bear his name -- as do parks, libraries, a dam, an island, a ship and, of course, the “Teddy Bear.”

A century after his death, American children are still being brainwashed with the legend of St. Theodore.

The Predatory Ruling Class immortalizes its top agents and sets them before us to obediently worship.

More than just a great president, Roosevelt was – the best-selling biographers of ass-clown academia assure us – a literary giant as well. Indeed, his numerous historical works made him one of the most prolific writers ever to serve as a U.S. president.

There is just one wee-little problem with this flattering historical narrative of Theodore Roosevelt: It is mostly all just puffed-up fakery. And that which is not false is grossly embellished, exaggerated or incomplete. The ongoing mythology -- since perpetuated out of ignorance and academic arrogance -- conceals the foul deeds of a deranged egomaniacal criminal, petty tyrant and psychotic warmonger.

In “Teddy the Terrible”, M S King of TomatoBubble.com fame strips away the phony facade of this vile show-boating charlatan. The surgical precision with which “TR” is cut down to size will radically change not only your view of the man, but also of the corrupt and fake world in which we live.

Such a strong tone will no doubt shock book readers and TV gawkers raised on the iconic hero-worship of St. Theodore. King’s irreverent and incendiary tone aside, the discerning reader will neither be able to refute the easily-verifiable facts contained herein, nor the conclusions which logically flow from them. Sorry Professor Pointyhead – this horrible, self-obsessed psycho is going down – and it is long overdue.

Enjoy the show.

“We have never had a President before who was destitute of self-respect & of respect for his high office; we have had no President before who was not a gentleman; we have had no President before who was intended for a butcher, a dive-keeper or a bully, & missed his mission by compulsion of circumstances over which he had no control.”

- Mark Twain on Teddy Roosevelt

SECTION 1: PRE-PRESIDENCY

1600's – 1800's

THE DEEP ROOTS OF THE ROOSEVELT DYNASTY

The Roosevelt Family Dynasty of America dates way back to the 1600's Dutch days when New York City was known as New Amsterdam. Nicholas Roosevelt – the 4th great grandfather of both future U.S. presidents Theodore and Franklin – was a fur trader and prominent citizen.

One of his sons, John Roosevelt, became a successful businessman and city councilman as well. He was the grandfather of successful businessman, James Jacobus Roosevelt (1759–1840) and the great-grandfather of extremely successful businessman Cornelius Roosevelt – who made a fortune in plate glass before becoming one of the founding directors of Chemical Bank of New York in 1844 -- which later became the present day Chase Bank.

By this time, with so much inherited wealth having been accumulated over generations, the talent for business of the Roosevelt Dynasty appears to be “petering out.” Cornelius’ high-living son, Theodore Roosevelt Sr. (1831-1878) became better known for self-aggrandizing philanthropy and “social reform” activism than for business. Roosevelt Sr. was an outspoken supporter of the Union during the U.S. Civil War and actually a charter member of the Union League Club. But he not only refused to volunteer for the fight which he supported so strongly; he then avoided the draft by paying another man to take his place – a controversial practice which, though legal, triggered the infamous “New York City Draft Riots” of 1863. We shall see, later on, how Teddy Jr. would spend much of his adult life trying to overcompensate for his father’s “chicken-hawk” conduct during the Civil War.

The elitist entitlement mentality of the Roosevelt clan is, by the turn of the century, deeply entrenched. A few generations of unearned wealth and privilege often messes up people’s up like that – as evidenced by the alcoholism, suicide, reckless behavior and even lesbianism which will afflict the coming generation of Roosevelts.

James Jacobus Roosevelt // Cornelius Roosevelt // Theodore Roosevelt Sr. – an industrious and talented bloodline / pedigree begins to atrophy.

OCTOBER 27, 1858

THEODORE ROOSEVELT IS BORN INTO PRIVILEGE / RAISED AS A SICKLY, SHELTERED CHILD

Theodore 'Teddy' Roosevelt (TR) is born into this immensely wealthy, socialite New York family in 1858. His youth will be shaped by very poor health due to debilitating asthma and near-sightedness. The little boy's nighttime asthma attacks are so severe that they terrify his parents. As a result, young Teddy's childhood is one of housebound protection. That is not his fault, of course; but even a superficial understanding of human psychology should lead us to a very legitimate question; namely, could the lost boyhood of those sheltered years be the cause of the self-aggrandizing, vainglorious, controlling, reckless and bullying behavior of his adulthood?

If the reader is wondering exactly what "self-aggrandizing, vainglorious, controlling, reckless and bullying behavior" your admittedly amateur psychoanalyst here is talking about; just keep reading. We'll get to that. The "sheltered-childhood-leading-to-over-compensating-adult-behavior" hypothesis will reveal itself as very plausible, if not highly probable, in due time.

- 1. Teddy in his little dress, common thing for young boys of the New York elite class.*
- 2. Boy Teddy is very unhealthy.*
- 3. By the time he gets to the Harvard rowing team, TR's over-compensating 'machismo' has taken root.*

SEVERE DYSFUNCTION IN THE ROOSEVELT FAMILY

When Theodore Sr. dies in 1878, the Roosevelt children inherit the huge family fortune. Teddy Jr.'s brother, Elliott, uses his money to live the life-style of the idle rich --- drinking (heavily), socializing, womanizing, hunting tigers in India and other useless pursuits.

At the age of 34, Elliott Roosevelt attempts suicide by jumping out of a window. Though he survives the initial fall, he dies a few days later. At the time of his death, his alcoholism was so bad that he was consuming Champagne and brandy by the bottle each day.

Elliott's son, Hall, will also become an alcoholic failure who dies at the age of 50.

Elliott's daughter and future first lady of the United States, struggles with depression all of her life and will eventually turn communist and lesbian.

Theodore's son, Kermit, will also develop a drinking problem and shoot himself in the head in 1943 – though the public, at the time, will be told it was due to a heart attack.

Theodore's daughter, Alice, will cheat on her husband and birth a child secretly fathered by Senator William Borah of Idaho.

Theodore's granddaughter, Paulina, will overdose on sleeping pills and die in 1957.

We review this tragic record of generational family dysfunction, alcoholism and three suicides not to mock the Roosevelts (though they deserve mockery for many other things) but only to support our conviction that Theodore Roosevelt himself, as a member of this disturbed dynasty, is certainly pre-disposed to insanity himself --- and, as the reader shall realize in due course, he is indeed insane.

- 1. Teddy's drunken brother Elliot (shown with Eleanor) killed himself.*
- 2. Teddy's drunken son, Kermit killed himself*

- 1. Teddy's daughter, Alice, becomes an uncontrollable "wild child" and whore. //*
- 2. In later years, Teddy's niece, Eleanor, becomes a communist lesbian.*

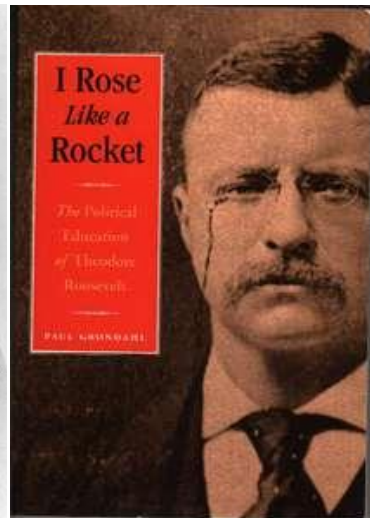

1882-1885

TR QUILTS LAW SCHOOL TO RUN FOR STATE ASSEMBLY

In 1881, the ambitious 23-year old drops out of Columbia Law School in order to run for a seat in the New York State Assembly. In explaining his reasons for quitting Columbia Law School – which he could more easily do because his father had died three years earlier -- TR later would later reveal: "I intended to be one of the governing class." (1)

TR wins a seat and enters the Assembly as its youngest member. The fact that he is the youngest member of the assembly does not stop the new busy-body in town from writing more bills – most of them totally frivolous -- than any other Assemblyman. (2) In 1884, the rich little ‘whipper-snapper’ runs for House Speaker. He loses, but establishes a name for himself in the process.

What accounts for this bizarre flurry of legislative activity and social climbing? A dedicated public servant wise beyond his years; or a self-aggrandizing egoist out to make his mark? Again, to reiterate, TR’s own words give us an indication of what is to come: "I intended to be one of the governing class."

From Columbia dropout to the State Assembly: The young man who “intended to be one of the governing class” later boasts of how he “rose like a rocket.”

FEBRUARY 12, 1884

TR SUFFERS A DOUBLE TRAGEDY

On his 22nd birthday in 1880, Roosevelt marries socialite Alice Hathaway Lee. Their daughter, Alice Lee Roosevelt, is born on February 12, 1884. Two days after giving birth, TR's wife dies due to kidney failure.

TR's mother, Mittie, had died of typhoid fever just eleven hours earlier at 3:00 a.m., in the same house. Distraught over the double loss, Roosevelt heads out west and leaves baby Alice in the care of his sister in New York. He will again assume custody of the child when she is three.

TR remarries in 1886, to Edith Kermit Carow. The couple will have five children: Theodore "Ted" III in 1887, Kermit in 1889, Ethel in 1891, Archibald in 1894, and Quentin in 1897 – and also raise Alice, Roosevelt's daughter from his first marriage.

TR lost his mother (left) and his wife (right) within hours of each other, in the same house.

1886

TR RUNS FOR MAYOR OF NEW YORK CITY WHILE PRETENDING TO BE A COWBOY FROM "THE BADLANDS"

Still only 27 years of age, the well-connected, unaccomplished, delusional would-be Boy King decides to run for Mayor of America's largest city as the Republican Party candidate. Ever the self-aggrandizing clown, TR uses the fact that he had recently purchased a ranch in North Dakota to absurdly portray himself as "The Cowboy of the Dakotas." This would be like buying an igloo in Alaska in 2019, and then declaring yourself an Eskimo whaler the following year!

In speech after speech, the young 'city slicker' is introduced as "The Cowboy of the Dakotas" or "The Badlands Cowboy." The shameless "cowboy" loves the attention, and allows the ridiculous "cowboy" legend to flourish. Cowboy Teddy places third in the election, but his political career is far from over.

"Look at me everybody! I'm a big bad cowboy from the Dakota Badlands. Vote for me. Bang! Bang!"

* Reminds this writer of the days when my sons were very little; and we would take them to Sears for photo shoots with playful fantasy backgrounds. --- What a jerk!

1895

TR IS NAMED NEW YORK CITY POLICE COMMISSIONER

Hoping to resurrect a political career, the former “cowboy,” just 36 and with no police background, becomes President of the board of the New York City Police Commissioners in 1895 and immediately begins reforming the department. The press hype surrounding these “accomplishments” smacks of exaggeration. Once again, TR manifests that ever-present need, that childlike insecurity, that annoying habit of shouting to the world, “Look at me, everybody! Look at me!”

For example, is it really necessary for the Police Commissioner of New York to personally “walk the beat” at night to check up on his officers as if they were little children? What makes this publicity stunt all the more ridiculous is that TR has prominent journalists accompany him on the beat and then write about it! (3) Seriously, what’s wrong with this man-child?

1. The Commissioner with ZERO police experience // 2. With journalists following, Super Cop TR walks the beat with his stick in hand. // 3. The Super Cop persona, invented by the New York Yellow Press, later followed TR to the White House.

1896-1898

THE 'YELLOW PRESS' AGITATES FOR WAR AGAINST SPAIN

Beginning on a small scale in 1896, and building up to a comical climax in 1898, the very same New York "Yellow Press.", whose propaganda had already invented the legend of Superman Police Commissioner Roosevelt, agitates relentlessly for war with Spain, ostensibly over the "liberation" of Cuba.

Our High School History fables taught us that the Spanish-American War of 1898 was a meaningless war instigated by the competing Yellow Journalist publishers William Randolph Hearst and Joseph Pulitzer for the purpose of selling newspapers. Here's a typical history-book sample of the retarded drivel that is still being spoon-fed to captive audiences of dumbed-down students:

"It is arguable that the Spanish-American War was perhaps the most pointless war in the history of the United States. Although it was not known at the time, the war was not truly fought for territory, for markets, for principle, or even for honor. Rather, it began because William Randolph Hearst, editor of the popular New York Journal sought sensational material to print." (4)

Certainly, Hearst and his propaganda rival at the New York World, Pulitzer, are helping to poison the public mind against Spain while selling a lot of papers in the process. But this idiotic and incomplete analysis ignores the "big picture" of the geopolitical hand which is moving the chess pieces. The point of the imperial game is to project U.S. imperial power over the Asian Pacific. To that end, it is necessary to kick Spain out of The Philippines and Guam so that U.S. naval bases can be established there instead. It is a dirty game and, as we shall soon see, the cowboy-tuned-super-cop will become a key player in the game.

The phony, absurd, and vile atrocity stories of the warmongering Yellow Press created the momentum needed for inciting the Spanish-America War.

APRIL, 1897

TR IS NAMED ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE U.S NAVY / AGITATES FOR WAR WITH SPAIN

With war propaganda heating up, the charmed life and meteoric rise of Super Teddy continues with an appointment to the Office of Assistant Secretary of the U.S. Navy. Clearly, somebody is puffing-up this still young man, and in a big way. But that's a whole other story for another time.

Near the end of 1897, TR explains his warmongering priorities to one of the Navy's planners. Behold the chilling talk of a social-engineering psychopath who views Americans as his personal clay, and military men as cannon-fodder to be sacrificed for "the governing class." TR:

"I would regard war with Spain from two viewpoints: first, the advisability on the grounds both of humanity and self-interest of interfering on behalf of the Cubans, and of taking one more step toward the complete freeing of America from European dominion; second, the benefit done our people by giving them something to think of which is not material gain, and especially the benefit done our military forces by trying both the Navy and Army in actual practice." (5)

As for the pious rubbish about “liberating Cuba”, we shall address that self - aggrandizing bit of bullshit shortly.

The rapid career rise of the new Assistant Naval Secretary was fueled by the same forces political and journalistic agitating for war with Spain.

FEBRUARY 15, 1898

THE OH-SO-CONVENIENT SINKING OF THE USS MAINE

In January, 1898, with war propaganda now at fever pitch, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, on his own initiative, ordered the armored cruiser USS Maine to provocatively sail into Cuba’s Havana Harbor (controlled by Spain). In an amazing “coincidence”, the ship just blows up, resulting in the deaths of 266 men. The warmongers of the New York Yellow Press, stirred up by Roosevelt’s false accusation of Spain, finally has the ‘casus belli’ (cause for war) that has eluded them. What good “fortune”, eh?

Without a trace of evidence, and in spite of strong Spanish denials, the treacherous TR proclaims Spain as the guilty party. Pressure grows on a reluctant President

William McKinley -- who is described by the blood-thirsty Roosevelt (in private letters to friends) as having “the backbone of a chocolate éclair” (6) -- to ask Congress for a Declaration of War. Knowing that Spain is innocent, McKinley resists.

The official position of the U.S. government today is that “coal dust accumulation” caused the horrific, and unprecedented, explosion. But astute students of history understand how such events are often engineered by the clandestine services of the “victim” nation itself. Let’s just leave it at that.

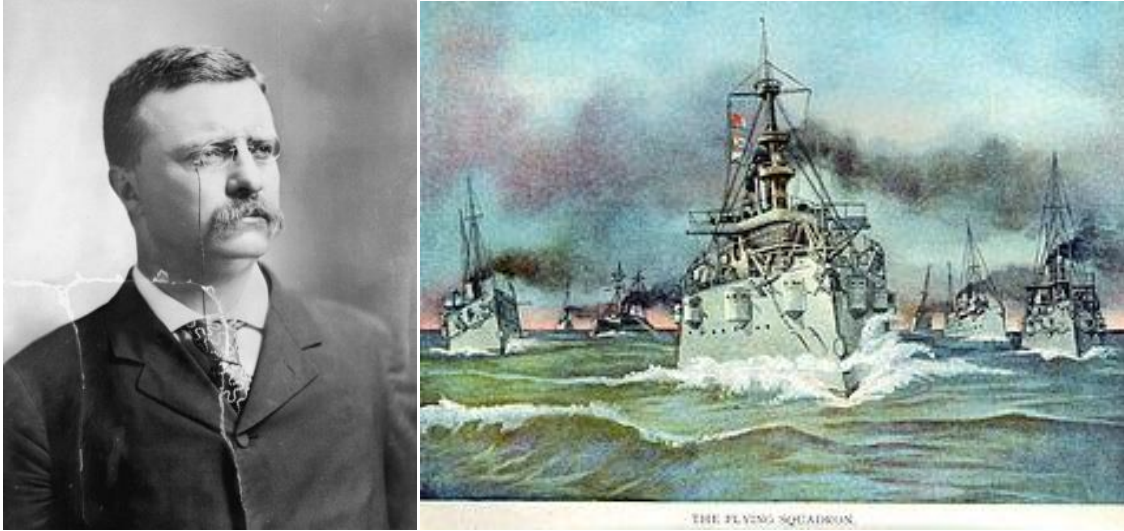

Source: "Crucible of Empire," PBS Online (adapted)

The mysterious and deadly blast was immediately followed by the false accusations of the Yellow Press and their darling Teddy Roosevelt.

FEBRUARY 25, 1898

TR ORDERS THE U.S. NAVY TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Just 10 days after the battleship Maine exploded, the Secretary of the Navy left his office and Roosevelt became Acting Secretary for four hours. Roosevelt wasted no time in cabling the Navy worldwide to prepare for war, ordered ammunition and supplies, brought in experts and went to Congress asking for the authority to recruit as many sailors as he wanted. All the while, Spain continues to protest its innocence.

TR orders the squadrons to prepare for the war that he wants so badly.

APRIL 11, 1898

McKINLEY CAN NO LONGER RESIST / ASKS CONGRESS FOR DECLARATION OF WAR

Even after the strange explosion on the Maine, President McKinley, Speaker of the House Thomas Brackett Reed, and America's business community had all urged a negotiated solution to the manufactured crisis in Cuba. McKinley had even turned to the Pope for peaceful mediation.

But the warmonger coalition in Congress and the New York Press is now too strong. Feeding off of Roosevelt's vile slanders, the Yellow Press runs headlines such as "Spanish Murderers" and "Remember the Maine". It is interesting to note that when McKinley finally surrenders to the inevitable, he never mentions the sinking of the USS Maine. That's because he knows that Spain is innocent and, unlike Roosevelt, isn't willing to lie to the American public.

Neither the Pope, nor the innocent Spaniards, nor the U.S. President was able to beat back the insane war mania and press propaganda which followed the destruction in the Maine. The Congressional and media pressure on McKinley forced him to finally ask for a war declaration.

APRIL 12, 1898

TR ORDERS NAVY TO ATTACK SPAIN'S PACIFIC FLEET

Within hours of the war declaration, "Assistant" Secretary Roosevelt again takes matters into his own hands by issuing an order for America's Asiatic Squadron - stationed in British Hong Kong in order to "protect commerce" - to destroy the Spanish fleet based in the Philippines. Try not to laugh, dear reader; but the warmongers justify this outrageous act of aggression as a necessary defensive strike aimed at preventing a Spanish attack on California!

The Battle of Manila Bay takes place on May 1 and it is an absolute rout. Commodore Dewey not only destroys the Spanish fleet, but also captures the harbor of Manila - effectively a U.S. body of water ever since. On June 20, a U.S. fleet commanded by Captain Henry Glass, also captures the island of Guam - a U.S. territory ever since.

And finally, in July, the House and Senate work their way around the 2/3 Senate requirement for annexing Hawaii by voting on a joint resolution instead. The "emergency" of the war is what finally enables the establishment of a huge base in Hawaii (Pearl Harbor), against the wishes of most native Hawaiians).

Philippines, Guam, Hawaii; yes, the war with Spain turned out to be very good for the warmongering imperialists of that era. Hey Teddy! Wasn't this holy war of yours supposed to be about "liberating" Cuba?

The war for "Cuba's freedom" was really all about the long term control over the Asian Pacific.

MAY 6, 1898

TR RESIGNS AS ASSISTANT NAVAL SECRETARY TO BECOME A FAKE "WAR HERO"

The totally lopsided war will end in August, after just 3 and 1/2 months. But not before the war's most important instigator, Teddy Roosevelt, steps down from his position to form a regiment called the "Rough Riders."

The grand-standing clown serves just long enough to build his resume as a "war hero." His mythical achievements as the fearless, horse-mounted leader of the Rough Riders and "hero of San Juan Hill" will be hyped by the very same Yellow Press which propagandized for the wicked little war in the first place.

In reality, the Battle of San Juan Hill, which actually took place at Kettle Hill, was only a minor supporting skirmish, fought on foot, in which Americans outnumbered Spaniards 15-1! It was actually the Buffalo Soldiers of the 10th Cavalry and 24th Infantry Regiments that had already done the heavy fighting, not TR's "Rough Riders." (7)

Prior to charging up the essentially undefended hill, the dramatic little Caesar, who had the only horse, rode back and forth between rifle pits at the forefront of the advance up Kettle Hill, an advance that he urged despite the absence of any orders from superiors. He was forced to walk up the last part of the hill when his poor horse became entangled in barbed wire.

The mythical "war hero" later wrote about his imaginary role in the non-battle:

"On the day of the big fight I had to ask my men to do a deed that European military writers consider utterly impossible of performance, that is, to attack over open ground an unshaken infantry armed with the best modern repeating rifles behind a formidable system of entrenchments. The only way to get them to do it in the way it had to be done was to lead them myself." (8)

The great glory-hound recalled the Battle of Kettle Hill (part of the San Juan Heights) as "the great day of my life" and "my crowded hour". But it will not be until 2001 that "the war hero" is posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor for his actions. The reason why TR's request for the Medal of Honor was denied at the time was because Army officials, who knew the truth about his headline-grabbing, make-believe "heroism", blocked his nomination. (9)

Idiotic false propaganda turned TR into an instant "war hero". But TR's commanding officers knew the San Juan Hill story was fake.

"I am entitled to the Medal of Honor and I want it."

- Teddy Roosevelt, in a letter to a friend, written upon his return to New York (10)

NOVEMBER, 1898

THE “WAR HERO” IS ELECTED GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

Almost immediately after leaving the Army in August, 1898, the legend-in-his-own-mind is tapped by the kingmakers of New York to run as the Republican Party candidate for governor. As one would have come to already expect of the raging narcissist, TR campaigns vigorously on his war record as the “hero” of San Juan Hill. The mendacious mythology is multiplied by the Yellow Press. ‘Colonel’ Roosevelt wins the election by the historically narrow margin of just 1%. So many good things happening for Theodore Roosevelt!

His brief 2-year Governorship is marked by a flurry of busy-body activity in which TR casts himself as the champion of “little guy” against the big bad corporations. Like his mythical charge into the imaginary gunfire of San Juan Hill, this too is based on smoke and bullshit. In reality, TR was a wholly- owned creation of the very Wall Street Finance Kings that he claims to be crusading against.

The other notable, and typical, development of TR’s Governorship was the very strange innovation of holding press conferences not on a weekly basis; not on a daily basis, but twice each day! Ostensibly, this was done to “stay connected with the middle-class”. In reality, the two-a-day pressers serve as further evidence that TR is a self-obsessed, attention-seeking megalomaniac who should never have been allowed anywhere near the levers of state power.

Then, as now, the gullible public loves a “war hero”. The “cowboy” shamelessly rode his fictitious battlefield heroism into the Governorship of New York.

1899-1900

U.S. VICE PRESIDENT GARRET HOBART DIES / TR IS IMPOSED UPON McKINLEY AS NEW VICE PRESIDENT

Just 55 years of age, Vice President Garret Hobart dies of an alleged heart ailment in November, 1899. The very same faction of warmongers that had imposed the phony Spanish-American War upon McKinley will soon impose TR -- over the objections of many high Republican officials as well as rank & file conservatives -- onto the Presidential ticket for the 1900 re-election campaign. This effort to draft Roosevelt for VP is also supported by some in New York who wish to be rid of the meddlesome do-gooder Governor and his excessive interference in commerce.

The popular McKinley is reelected. In March, 1901, the newly sworn-in TR finds himself just “a heartbeat away” from the Presidency of the United States. In September, he coins the phrase for which he is best known for: “Speak softly and carry a big stick, and you will go far.” (11) Spoken like a true sociopath.

So many good things happening for Theodore Roosevelt!

An unexpected death turns McKinley-Hobart into McKinley-Roosevelt. The Yellow Press cartoon image at center depicts a “reluctant” TR, in “war hero” uniform, having to be seduced by the 4 maidens (North, South, East, West) into joining the McKinley 1900 ticket as Vice President.

SEPTEMBER, 1901

PRESIDENT McKINLEY IS ASSASSINATED BY A RED TERRORIST / TR BECOMES PRESIDENT

The charmed political life of the cowboy-super cop-war hero continues when Leon Czolgosz, a Red terrorist anarchist, shoots President McKinley at close range. It was the speeches of the notorious Red subversive, Emma Goldman, which moved Czolgosz to “do something heroic”.

McKinley appears to be making a strong recovery, before suddenly weakening and dying on September 14, 1901. Just shy of his 43rd birthday, the ultra-ambitious Theodore Roosevelt becomes the youngest President in U.S. history. A Red bullet has put a “progressive” in the White House. And again -- so many good things happening for Theodore Roosevelt!

1. Leon Czolgosz: The immigrant Red's bullet put a big government "Progressive" into the White House. // 2. TR is sworn-in as President. The rapid rise of TR is complete.

SECTION 2: PRESIDENCY

DECEMBER, 1901

THE BABBLER-IN-CHIEF DELIVERS A 20,000 WORD SPEECH BEFORE CONGRESS

Less than 3 months into his Presidency, TR's first notable act is to deliver an unprecedented 20,000 word speech before Congress. In it, he lays out his general ideas for remaking America according to "progressive" big government worldview. The 20,000 word snooze-fest dwarfs George Washington's First Inaugural Address by 18,600 words; surpasses Thomas Jefferson's First Inaugural Address by 18,300; Washington's historic Farewell Address by 12,000; and the notorious babbler Obama's average State of the Union speech by 11,000. TR's ridiculous ramble is the equivalent of reading the Declaration of Independence fourteen consecutive times!

To the superficial observer, this marathon talk may seem like a trivial event, good perhaps only for a laugh. But to the astute student of human behavior, this event, combined with what we have already learned about the great 'cowboy-super cop-war hero', adds still further weight to the hypothesis that TR is a mentally unsound, self-absorbed sociopath and a very dangerous demagogue.

The chatty charlatan was notorious for rabble-rousing and rambling, for hours at a time, about the "malefactors of great wealth" (which he actually served).

1902

THE MYTH OF ROOSEVELT THE "TRUST BUSTER" IS BORN

Upon taking office after McKinley's death, Roosevelt reassures worried conservatives that he will not rush into a progressive agenda. Those assurances sure don't last long.

In 1902, TR orders the U.S. Justice Department to begin antitrust proceedings against John D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil Company. Though the move is politically popular, there is no sound economic argument to support it. Standard Oil is the dominant producer of oil not because it had rigged the market in any way, but rather because it is most well-run petroleum company in the country. Furthermore, by the time TR launches his self-righteous crusade, Standard Oil's share of the total market, as well as prices, had already been falling due to free market competition.

These facts mean nothing to Rosie the Regulator, whose only interest is self-aggrandizement at the expense of "big business." The U.S. Supreme Court gave the new president what he wanted -- an order to split Standard into much smaller geographical entities.

That same year, the Justice Department also successfully sues the Northern Securities Company -- a stock holding company which, according to the young King, is suppressing competition among the western railroads. But as was the case regarding Standard Oil, there is again no justification for the attack on Northern Securities.

Writing for Free Market Magazine of the Mises Institute, William Anderson points out a peculiar double standard and a motive behind the "trustbusting" --

"Roosevelt's "trustbusting" always had an explicit corollary: there were "good trusts" and "bad trusts," the good ones being those politically aligned with him."(1)

In his war against business owners (also driven by TR's feeling of inferiority relative to men of actual accomplishment) an even worse abuse of private property rights again occurs during his first presidential year of 1902. The United Mine Workers of the Pennsylvania coal fields go on strike in May of that year. By November, both the miners (which include Reds among their union bosses) and owners are still holding firm. Although Roosevelt has no legal authority under the U.S. Constitution to intervene, he calls for a conference between UMW leaders and the mine owners.

The miners union, knowing that TR is anti-business, agrees to arbitration. But when the owners refuse, Teddy Tyrant launches into tirade. He threatens to have the U.S. Army seize the coal mines and operate them with soldiers! The owners, thus brutalized by Crazy King, quickly back down and give in to the Union's demands for higher wages, which are then, naturally, passed onto to customers in the form of higher prices to cover overhead costs.

These bold and dictatorial moves of the great "trustbuster" and interventionist – all hyped up by elements of the Fake News and Fake Historians ever since -- are neither economical nor constitutional. What is most interesting to note, however, is that TR will go on to lay the foundation for the establishment of what will later on become the most massive private trust in world history – The Federal Reserve System. More on that crime against the American people, later on.

1. Trustbuster Teddy takes a big stick to the big bad corporations. // 2. TR battles the railroad trusts in the wrestling ring.

1. TR as “Jack” confronting the beanstalk giants of Wall Street. // 2. A military threat against the coal company owners: “We Must Have That Coal!”

1901-1907

TR FIGHTS THE PHILIPPINES WAR AND MORO REBELLION

The shameful Philippines War and subsequent Moro Rebellion grow out of the equally shameful Spanish-American War – the “splendid little war” as TR refers to it.

During TR's war of Asian aggression, 5,000 Americans and 30,000 – 50,000 Filipinos are killed, with as many as 100,000 more natives dying of disease. (2) This is the Philippine independence movement's reward for rising up against Spain, based on America's empty promises. The formerly Spanish-speaking natives are then converted to the English language, which they speak to this day.

- 1. TR's long-since forgotten Philippines War got 5,000 Americans killed*
- 2. American troops waterboard-torture a Philippine rebel.*

NOVEMBER, 1902

TR AND HIS POLITICAL STOOGES INVENT THE LEGEND OF THE TEDDY BEAR

The Teddy Bear was invented in honor of TR. As the silly story goes, it all began when TR was on a bear hunting trip in Mississippi as the guest of Mississippi Governor Andrew H. Longino.

During the hunt, Roosevelt's assistants corner and tie a black bear to a willow tree. They summon TR for him to shoot it. Viewing this as unsportsmanlike, Roosevelt the Merciful refuses to shoot the bear. The news of this alleged event spreads quickly throughout Yellow newspaper s across the country; some of which reduce the bear to a cub! The idiotic articles recount the story of the noble President who had refused to shoot a bear.

A Brooklyn candy shop owner by the name of Morris Michtom sees one of the newspaper cartoons and decides to create a stuffed toy bear dedicated to the gentle President. He calls it 'Teddy's Bear'. After receiving Roosevelt's permission to use his name, (as if the egoist TR would have passed up another chance to be a hero!) Michtom mass-produces the toy bears which are popular to this day.

The ultimate irony of this self-aggrandizing fairy tale is that when TR determined that the bear was injured, he ordered it to be killed! (3)

Teddy the Merciful: Roosevelt's self-aggrandizing and staged stunts never end!

1903

TR ORCHESTRATES A REVOLUTION IN COLOMBIA

Contrary to TR's post-Presidency boasts, and also contrary to official U.S, history fables, the phony Pharaoh of America did not "build the Panama Canal" The concept was long in the works before TR even arrived on the scene. At most, TR can be credited with expediting the stalled project; but the manner in which he does this amounts to yet another shameful and uncalled for episode of Rooseveltian "big stick" bullying.

Irritated by Colombia's reasonable request for better terms for what is to become the Panama Canal, TR foments a fake revolution in the Panama region of Colombia. Even Establishment “historian” and Roosevelt sycophant David McCulloch wrote critically of TR’s hasty refusal to even see the very reasonable Colombian position.

As a show of intimidation, TR also orders battleships into the area. The result is the newly formed puppet state of Panama. Colombia ends up being screwed out of any lease payments for the Canal! (4)

Teddy tosses a spadeful of Panama dirt on the capital city of Colombia.

THE MAN BEHIND THE EGG—From the Times (New York)

1. Cartoon depicts TR’s militaristic bullying. // 2. The Yellow Press and modern court historians would have you believe that TR single-handedly conceived and built the canal with his own two hands! // 3. Cartoon mocks TR’s intrigues which broke up Columbia and created the Panama puppet state.

1904

THE IMPERIALIST “ROOSEVELT COROLLARY”

In his State of the Union Address of 1904, TR sets forth the principles of what later became known as the Roosevelt Corollary to the Monroe Doctrine of 1823. TR asserts the “right” of the United States to intervene in order to "stabilize" the economic affairs of small states in the Caribbean and Central America.

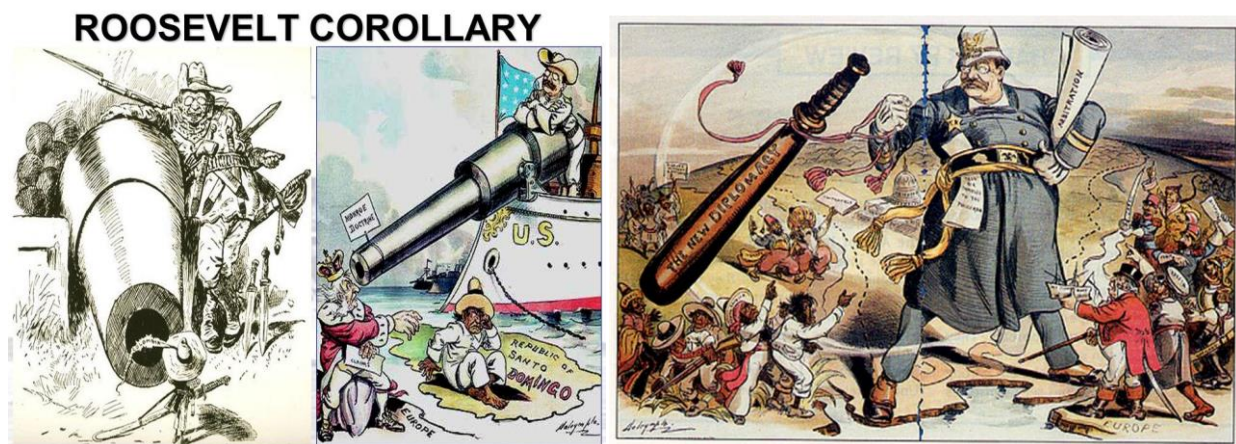

Emperor Roosevelt:

“All that this country desires is to see the neighboring countries stable, orderly, and prosperous. Any country whose people conduct themselves well can count upon our hearty friendship. If a nation shows that it knows how to act with reasonable efficiency and decency in social and political matters, if it keeps order and pays its obligations, it need fear no interference from the United States.

Chronic wrongdoing, or an impotence which results in a general loosening of the ties of civilized society, may in America, as elsewhere, ultimately require intervention by some civilized nation, and in the Western Hemisphere the adherence of the United States to the Monroe Doctrine may force the United States, however reluctantly, in flagrant cases of such wrongdoing or impotence, to the exercise of an international police power.” (5)

While the Monroe Doctrine sought to bar entry to the European empires, the Roosevelt Corollary announced the United States intention to take their place and use its own military muscle to obtain concessions and privileges for American corporations.

The Roosevelt Corollary is an important decree because, over the next 20 years, the United States will move into Latin America about a dozen times with some form of military force. This policy of “Yankee Imperialism” -- which continues to this day, only globally -- creates resentment through Central and South America.

“Speak softly and carry a big stick.”

MARCH 17, 1905

UNCLE TEDDY STEALS THE SPOTLIGHT FROM HIS NIECE ON HER WEDDING DAY

Writing for the online feminist magazine, Jezebel, Journalist Kate Dries recounts the story of how pathologically self-centered Uncle Ted ignorantly overshadowed the wedding of his niece, Eleanor, to her distant cousin, Franklin, in St. Patrick's Day of 1905 --

Headline: The Day Eleanor Roosevelt Wed a Cousin & Had Her Wedding Overshadowed

“ ‘ Teddy was definitely the center of attention that day: "He seemed to greatly enjoy the typical Irish welcome,' The Lewinston Daily Sun noted of the crowds that screamed at the sight of him.

It became clear, however, even 30 years later, that the memories of her big day were all marred by Uncle Ted.

(Quoting Eleanor) -- "Everybody was very polite to us and came and said howdy-do, and then congregated around Uncle Ted, and we suddenly found ourselves all alone.

"That is why we are careful, if we go to any of the young people's weddings, since Franklin has been President, that Franklin doesn't take the limelight." (6)

Years later, TR's daughter, Alice Roosevelt, also gives us an insight into the egomania of her father. And she sounds as if she speaks from experience:

"He wants to be the bride at every wedding, the corpse at every funeral, and the baby at every christening." (7)

Both Eleanor and Alice expressed resentment over TR's constant need to hog up the limelight.

Always at the center of attention!

1905

TR'S DECEITFUL INTERVENTION WEAKENS ANTI-COMMUNIST RUSSIA

Dating back to the failed kidnapping attempt and, later on, the mysterious death of Tsar Alexander I, the western “One Worlder” bankers and their connected Russian leftist revolutionaries have sought the destruction of the Romanov Dynasty of Imperial Russia. To that end, during the late 1800’s, Japan is rapidly industrialized, built-up and “egged on” by the elite Jewish bankers, as well as British elites, for the purpose of clashing with Russia in the Far East. Indeed, the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-05 is heavily financed by Jacob Schiff – an elite international financier and a political backer of Roosevelt.

Russia’s setbacks at the hands of the Japanese offer the Communist revolutionaries an opportunity to sow domestic discord within Russia and stage a revolution. Though this Red Revolution will eventually be put down, the Russian government is weakened and left vulnerable to another attempt (which would be successful) in 1917.

Roosevelt's diplomatic, yet very assertive, intervention into the war leads to the signing of The Treaty of Portsmouth (New Hampshire) in 1905 and a subsequent Nobel Peace Prize for TR in 1906. But there is a motive behind TR's "peace making" and it has nothing to do with "humanitarianism."

The double-dealing demon only pretends to be a neutral broker when, in reality, his purpose, in line with the Globalists and their Communist friends in Russia, is to craft a treaty which favors Japan and thus weakens the Christian Russian regime in preparation for the tragic day of bloody overthrow.

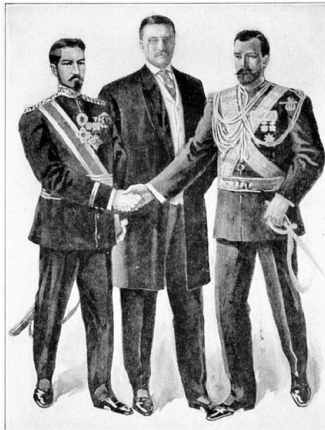

Roosevelt's own words, penned in private letters to his son, Kermit, confirm the treacherous truth behind his sudden desire for peace:

"I have concealed from everyone – literally everyone – the fact that I acted in the first place on Japan's suggestion. Remember, you are to let no one know that in the matter of the peace negotiations, I have acted at the request of Japan and that each step has been taken with Japan's foreknowledge, and not merely with her approval, but with her expressed desire." (8)

TR's secret pro-Japan (anti-Russian) bias is not motivated by any true sympathy for the Japanese, of course. Japan was used all along solely for the purpose of weakening Russia. Just 30 years later, TR's distant cousin, Franklin Delano Roosevelt (a member of the same Globo Mafia which created TR) would incite and encourage China to fight Japan – in much the same way that TR had induced Japan to fight Russia. In a previous letter, also written to his son, TR gloats over Japan's initial attack on the Russian Navy at Port Arthur in Manchuria – an event which triggered the Russo-Japanese war in 1904:

"I was thoroughly well pleased with Japan's victory for Japan is playing our game." (9) (emphasis added)

So you see, the illustrious Nobel Peace Prize winner, acting on behalf of Globalist elites such as the Rothschilds, the Schiffs and the Warburgs, was actually the one who instigated the war against Russia (and, by extension, the attempted Communist revolution in Russia) in the first place! It was a dirty "game" indeed.

Copyright 1905, by Nellie B. Van Silvertand
"We are good fighters, but we want peace."—Teddy.

1. Propaganda drawing regarding Roosevelt's Treaty of Portsmouth: Deceptive caption reads: "We are good fighters, but we want peace." 2. The Russo-Japanese War (which TR and friends made possible) served as the trigger for a deadly attempt at Communist Revolution in Russia. 3. Leftist banker and Roosevelt supporter Jacob Schiff funded both the Japanese war effort and the Red revolt of 1905.

THE MYTH OF ROOSEVELT THE "CONSERVATIONIST"

Roosevelt is known as a passionate outdoorsman. He uses this façade and phony concern for the natural environment to -- in the name of "conservation" -- implement Federal government land grabs that would make Karl Marx proud.

TR's bold actions to "preserve" American wildlands lead to more bad policy. In 1905, he hires Gifford Pinchot, a "progressive" Republican socialist to carry out his forest grab policies. TR and Pinchot erroneously argue that the only way to ensure future resources is for government to take ownership and slowly dole them out over time.

The confiscated acreage of TR's land grab is massive -- 230 million acres. That number includes 150 million acres set aside as national forests. For what purpose?

Roosevelt also sanctions the construction of numerous dams in the West which are of questionable value (but quite popular with western interest groups). Also popular with the timber interests are the national parks, which lessen the competition by diminishing the areas where smaller competitors can cut.

Roosevelt and his lackey Pinchot (and certain established timber interests) had ulterior motives behind their Marxist “conservation” schemes.

1905

TR TAKES OVER THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

By 1904, Dominican indebtedness to European nations and certain U.S. corporations amounts to more than $32 million. What a perfect pretext to take over the D.R.! Under diplomatic pressure, the Dominican Republic “requests” that the United States intervene to put the island's financial house in order.

Under terms of TR's Executive Order of January 1905, the U.S. assumes responsibility for customs collection, and, naturally, vassal state control of the Dominican government. That is done without Senate approval and sets a dangerous imperial precedent which many future U.S. Presidents have since followed. TR not only acts as if he owns the Caribbean and South America, but the U.S. Senate as well.

1. Cartoon depicts TR and his “big stick” taking control of the Caribbean. One of his battleships is labeled: “Debt Collection”. 2. Puck Magazine mocks TR’s drive to become an American Emperor

1906
TR SIGNS “PURE FOOD & DRUG ACT” AND THE “MEAT INSPECTION ACT” INTO LAW

In 1906, the sensationalistic anti-business writer Upton Sinclair -- an admitted socialist and suspected communist, publishes “The Jungle” -- a disgusting, though highly exaggerated account of the unsanitary practices taking place inside of meat packing plants.

Hyped by the press, Sinclair’s fictional novel brings about public pressure for government regulation of the industry. Though the control-freak Roosevelt quickly capitalizes on the opening provided by the manufactured mania surrounding “The Jungle,” TR himself admits, in a private letter, that he regards Sinclair as an insincere “crackpot.”

He adds:

"I have an utter contempt for him (Sinclair). He is hysterical, unbalanced, and untruthful. Three-fourths of the things he said were absolute falsehoods. For some of the remainder there was only a basis of truth." (10)

Nonetheless, Roosevelt the Regulator agrees that “something must be done.” His bullying of Congress leads to the quick and unnecessary passage of both the Meat Inspection Act and the Pure Food and Drug Act.

With neither judge nor jury, an offending manufacturer or distributor can now be prosecuted by some imperious inspector from the all-mighty Federal government. This sets a dangerous precedent which marks the beginning of the tyrannical over-regulation of American industry by a variety of uncontrollable ‘alphabet agencies.’

Of course, we all want clean food and safe drugs. But what the unimaginative worshippers of centralized big government do not understand is that sensible regulation can be delegated to private enterprise at a fraction of the cost and without the tyrannical red tape and excessive rules which ultimately kill businesses and jobs.

Take Underwriters Laboratories, for example. The coveted “UL” listing is a sure “regulatory” indicator that a listed product is safe for use and of high quality. UL is not a government entity. The companies pay for the inspections, which are thorough and of impeccable repute. Could we not get rid of so many government agencies and turn over their tasks to such firms? Why not a UL listing for the meat-packing and drug companies?

A private system would work fine. But then we wouldn’t need elitist do-gooders like Teddy and his idiotic ilk lording over us, would we?

1. ACLU-Marxist Sinclair's "The Jungle" -- which gave TR the cover he needed to regulate Food * Drugs -- was also made into a play. // 2. A UL listing works fine for so many consumer products and industrial machinery. Why do we need insane and tyrannical Federal regulators for everything?

1906

'REGULATING ROOSEVELT' SUGGESTS A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO NATIONALIZE MARRIAGE & DIVORCE LAW

This particular scheme to consolidate state-specific marriage & divorce law never gets off the ground; and, in the grand scheme of things, it's not all that significant of an issue. We mention it because it will give the reader an idea of just how much of a meddling, anti-Constitutionalist busy-body this controlling fool really is.

Here's Teddy, from his 1906 State of the Union Address:

"I am well aware of how difficult it is to pass a constitutional amendment. Nevertheless in my judgment the whole question of marriage and divorce should be relegated to the authority of the National Congress. At present the wide differences in the laws of the different States on this subject result in scandals and abuses; and surely there is nothing so vitally essential to the welfare of the nation, nothing around which the nation should so bend itself to throw every safeguard, as the home life of the average citizen.” (11)

Consolidate, consolidate, consolidate – and the Constitution be damned. The insane Emperor does not believe in any form of states’ rights – not even when it comes to marriage & divorce laws. Is it any wonder therefore to learn that TR, in private letters, expressed contempt for Thomas Jefferson the liberty-loving author of the Declaration of Independence and 3rd U.S. President?

Note the difference between the limited-government philosophies of Jefferson vs. the unlimited-power mindset of Teddy the Terrible.

DECEMBER, 1906

TR USES HIS STATE OF THE UNION ADDRESS TO CALL FOR MARXIST TAXES ON INCOME & INHERITANCE

In 1848, Karl Marx and his money man, Friedrich Engels, vomited out the Communist Manifesto. The putrid pamphlet, notwithstanding its high-sounding empty platitudes and fake concern for “the people,” was nothing more than a call for a totalitarian dictatorship -- encompassing politics, economics and even culture.

As incremental steps toward the implementation of this nightmarish vision of top-down micromanagement of humanity, Marx set forth “10 Planks” of his program.

It is interesting to note that most of those planks would later be supported by prominent members of New York's monopolistic "capitalist" class whom, as the felonious fairy tale goes, are the mortal enemies of the Marxists. In reality, the Reds and the Wall Street Money Masters are actually ideological cousins – with the former often directing the latter. Both elements are monopolistic control freaks of differing, though still somewhat similar stripes and; as such, both support the "10 Planks" of all-powerful government – all of which violate the liberty-minded U.S. Constitution.

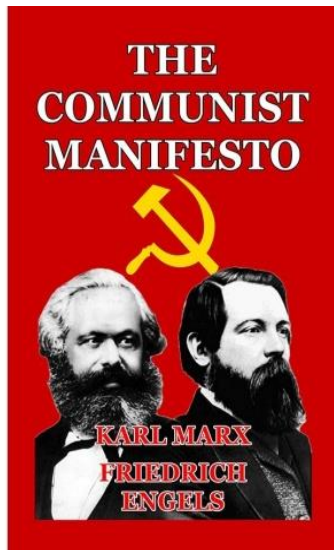

In his 1906 State of the Union address -- which he delivers, not reads, to the U.S. Congress, Roosevelt strongly calls for the implementation of two forms of taxation which, although not in place in America at the time, represent two of Marx's "10 Planks" – the Income Tax (Tax on Labor) and the Inheritance Tax (Tax on Death).

We'll let Ted the Red – whose family got to amass its enormous fortune without having to pay income or inheritance tax -- speak for himself:

"There is every reason why when next our system of taxation is revised the national government should impose a graduated inheritance tax and, if possible, a graduated income tax

I feel that in the near future our national legislators should enact a law providing for a graduated inheritance tax by which a steadily increasing rate of duty should be put upon all moneys or other valuables coming by gift, bequest, or devise to any individual or corporation. It may be well to make the tax heavy in proportion as the individual benefited is remote of kin. In any event, in my judgment the pro rata of the tax should increase very heavily with the increase of the amount left to any one individual after a certain point has been reached. It is most desirable to encourage thrift and ambition, and a potent source of thrift and ambition is the desire on the part of the breadwinner to leave his children well off. This object can be attained by making the tax very small on moderate amounts of property left; because the prime object should be to put a constantly increasing burden on the inheritance of those swollen fortunes which it is certainly of no benefit to this country to perpetuate. (12)

It was not until 1913 and 1916 respectively, under Democrat Woodrow Wilson's 8-year reign of ruin, that the nation's first Income Tax and the first Inheritance Tax were instituted. But it is the ultra-left "republican" Theodore Roosevelt who "gets the ball rolling" for each of these Marxist initiatives – repeatedly bashing his concerned critics with Marxist insults such as "reactionaries" (13) and "ultraconservative apologists." (14) The following year, TR would also start the process for establishing yet another of Marx's "10 Planks" – a Central Bank.

1. "Progressives" such as TR slowly but surely managed to implement the heart of Marx's scheme in once free America. 2. Cartoon from the era depicts Teddy Roosevelt and Wall Street titans welcoming Karl Marx 3. TR set the foundation for the eternal tax shakedown of the American people.

1907

TR USES THE PANIC OF 1907 TO LAY FOUNDATION FOR THE
'FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM' SCAM

Another of Karl Marx's "10 Planks" that matched up nicely with the aims of monopolistic debt-capitalism is the establishment of a central bank to create what is essentially counterfeit debt-money, and inject it into the economy, at interest. Though this monster "trust" will not be created until 1913 (under the ruinous reign of Woodrow Wilson), it is TR, the so-called "trustbuster," who appoints the crooked "commission" which will craft the framework for this wicked institution that President Andrew Jackson had worked so tirelessly and bravely to kill about 70 years earlier – and now torments American workers with perpetual debt (both public & private) along with constant price inflation.

Here's how the sequence of events played out.

January, 1907: Jacob Schiff issues a Warning

In a speech before the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Jewish banking mogul, Jacob Schiff, "prophetically" warns:

"Unless we have a Central Bank with control of credit resources, this country is going to undergo the most severe and far reaching money panic in its history."
(15)

October, 1907: Crisis Scares Americans

In the early 1900's, the New York Bankers have inflated the money supply -- and hence, the stock market -- with easy loans. Roosevelt, in his 1906 State of the Union Address, proudly -- and with stunning financial ignorance – informs the Congress:

"The national bank act has ably served a great purpose in aiding the enormous business development of the country; and within ten years there has been an increase in circulation (money supply) per capita from $21.41 to $33.08." (16)

When lending is suddenly tightened by the Schiff-connected banks, the money-supply bubble bursts. Stocks crash 50% and bank runs follow. The Banking Mafia, using TR as their tool, seeks to use the Panic of 1907 as the pretext for setting up a legally criminal Central Bank in America.

1911: U.S. Senator: “The Panic is a Conspiracy!”

Fast-forward: Four years after the 07 Panic, Senator Robert Owen of Oklahoma will demand an investigation into the sudden crash:

"(The Panic) was brought about by a deliberate conspiracy for the enrichment of those who engineered it...I regard it as treason against the United States....a few men control the power of expanding or contracting credits. This unrestrained power means the power to create panics and coerce this country politically." (17)

1908: Roosevelt Appoints a Commission

TR, in service to the giants who put him in office, appoints a "bi-partisan" National Monetary Commission to study the causes of the Panic and to make suggestions. The Chairman of the Commission is Senator Nelson Aldrich (whose daughter will one day be the mother of the 5 famous Rockefeller sons, David, John III, Nelson, Winthrop, & Lawrence)

Of course, the main recommendation of Aldrich's National Monetary Commission is to establish a Central Bank (privately owned by banking mobsters like the Rothschilds, Warburgs, Schiffs and Rockefellers) with monopoly control of credit and currency issue. The bank would create money out of thin air and lend it to local banks and the government at interest.

1. Jacob Schiff, who spent millions to help the Communists to subvert Russia, "predicted" the very crisis that he and his fellow gangsters were deliberately engineering. // 2. The Crash of 1907 --- Panic and bank runs in New York. // 3. Senator Owen smelled a rat and called it a 'conspiracy.'

1910: Secret Meeting at Jekyll Island

Senator Aldrich, Paul Warburg, and other agents of the Rockefeller & Rothschild dynasties meet secretly at JP Morgan's private club in Jekyll Island, Georgia. One of the conspirators, Frank Vanderlip, will, years later, reveal to The Saturday Evening Post:

"There was an occasion, near the close of 1910, when I was as secretive, indeed, as furtive as any conspirator. ... We were trying to plan a mechanism that would correct the weaknesses of our banking system as revealed under the strains and pressures of the Panic of 1907. I do not feel it is any exaggeration to speak of our secret expedition to Jekyll Island as the occasion of the actual conception of what eventually became the Federal Reserve System. ... Discovery, we knew, simply must not happen, or else all our time and effort would be wasted. If it were to be exposed publicly that our group had gotten together and written a banking bill, that bill would have no chance whatever of passage by Congress." (18)

Fast-Forward 100 + Years

The "Banksters" OPENLY celebrate the 100th anniversary of the conspiratorial meeting at Jekyll Island. Fed Chairmen Ben Bernanke and Ex Chairman Alan

Greenspan are both in attendance at the conference entitled "A Return to Jekyll Island: The Origins, History, and Future of the Federal Reserve" - held exactly 100 years after the original 1910 meeting, and in the same building.

1. Senator Aldrich married into the Rockefeller Family // 2. 2010: Greenspan & Bernanke visit Jekyll Island on the 100th anniversary of the criminal meeting!

1912: The Aldrich Bill Dies

Senator Aldrich introduces a bill to establish a Central Bank (The Aldrich Bill). The criminal scheme (hatched at Jekyll Island) is transparent, and Aldrich's name is too closely linked to the Money Masters of New York. Congressman Charles A Lindbergh Sr. (father of the famous aviator) declares:

“The Aldrich Plan is the Wall Street Plan. It means another panic, if necessary, to intimidate the people. Aldrich, paid by the government to represent the people, proposes a plan for the trusts instead.” (19)

Opposition to Aldrich's scheme is so strong, that the bill to create a Central Bank is never even brought to the floor

- 1. Paul Warburg: Father of the Fed -- America's Central Bank – was present at the Jekyll Island conspiracy. // 2. An anti-Central Bank cartoon from 1912! // 3. Charles Lindbergh Sr. – a determined foe of the central bank -- and his famous son.

1913: The Aldrich Bill is Re-Packaged – The “Fed” is Born!

A few cosmetic changes are made to the old Aldrich Bill and the bill is dishonestly renamed “The Federal Reserve Act.” Congressman Lindbergh is not fooled:

“This is the Aldrich Bill in disguise ....This Act establishes the most gigantic trust on earth. When the President signs this bill, the invisible government by the Monetary Power will be legalized. The people may not know it immediately, but the day of reckoning is only a few years removed. The worst legislative crime of the ages is perpetrated by this banking bill.” (20)

The bill passes anyway, on December 23, after many Senators and Congressmen had left town for Christmas Break! Puppet President Woodrow Wilson quickly signs the bill creating the privately owned Federal Reserve System. Weeks earlier, Wilson had already enacted the nation's first Income Tax (needed to pay interest to the bankers after they set up their Central Bank!) The counterfeiting, insider trading, loan sharking, Globalist Money Masters have gained political and economic control of America, and will hold it to the present day. Most informed conservatives rightly blame Wilson for birthing this monster into law. But few understand that it was Teddy Roosevelt who began the process.

The on-again and off-again harm that the Fed has caused to America ever since is beyond the scope of this work and too far removed from the direct subject matter. The essential takeaway point here is that TR's well-publicized battles against the New York "Robber Barons" are a publicity sham. Indeed, TR's NMC, assembled during TR's final months in office, aims to hand over the whole damn money supply to the Rockefellers, Warburgs, Schiffs, and Rothschilds!

1. The Yellow Press myth of TR as the slayer of the giant "capitalists" is as phony as the "cowboy" and "war hero" legends. It was Wall Street fat cats who were behind TR all along. TR's National Monetary Commission began the process of handing over the money supply to the Global Banking Mafia. // 2. Nelson Aldrich, an in-law and trusted agent of the Rockefellers // 3. Papa Rockefeller and son John D. Jr. strolling in their top hats.

The "progressive" Republican TR started the criminal process which the "progressive" Democrat Wilson completed five years later.

1907-1909

TR SHOWS OFF THE 'GREAT WHITE FLEET'

The Great White Fleet was the popular nickname for the U.S. Navy battle fleet that TR ordered to sail around the world from December 1907 to February 1909. TR's ostentatious and unnecessary "big stick" intimidation consists of 16 battleships divided into two squadrons, along with various escorts. The vulgar display of military power marks the completion of America's Rooseveltian transition from a peaceful republic to a violent global bully that is prepared to intervene around the world.

"USA! USA! USA!"....The jingoistic and militaristic ugliness that is modern "American exceptionalism" originated with the mad Globalist TR.

1905-1908

MARK TWAIN NAILS TR TO THE LITERARY CROSS!

One thing that great writers all have in common is the uncanny ability to read human nature and to see through the facades of our behavior. The legendary Mark Twain, who, ironically, is the subject of one of the few Ken Burns documentaries that is actually tolerable, had TR all figured out. His brutal and illuminating words, accumulated over a period of 6 years, speak for themselves.

“We have never had a President before who was destitute of self-respect & of respect for his high office; we have had no President before who was not a gentleman; we have had no President before who was intended for a butcher, a dive-keeper or a bully, & missed his mission by compulsion of circumstances over which he had no control.” (21)

“He is magnificent when his ears are pricked up and his tail is in the air, and he attacks a lightning express, only to be lost in the dust the express creates” (22)

Mr. Roosevelt is the Tom Sawyer of the political world of the twentieth century; always showing off; always hunting for a chance to show off; in his frenzied imagination the Great Republic is a vast Barnum circus with him for a clown and the whole world for audience; he would go to Halifax for half a chance to show off and he would go to hell for a whole one. (23)

We are insane, each in our own way, and with insanity goes irresponsibility. Theodore the man is sane; in fairness we ought to keep in mind that Theodore, as statesman and politician, is insane and irresponsible. (24)

Our people have adored this showy charlatan as perhaps no impostor of his brood has been adored since the Golden Calf, so it is to be expected that the Nation will want him back again after he is done hunting other wild animals heroically in Africa, with the safeguard and advertising equipment of a park of artillery and a brass band. (25)

Great writers instinctively sense the flaws and facades of the human character. That is why Mark Twain despised the show-off “circus clown” Roosevelt.

1908

TR CHOOSES NOT TO RUN AGAIN – ENDORSES ROBERT TAFT

Though there was no 2-term limit for presidents back in those days, TR, after holding office for almost two full terms (the first having been assumed after McKinley's assassination) chooses not to seek another re-election. Instead, he supports his friend and Secretary of War (Defense), Robert Taft of Ohio. Roosevelt is expecting Taft to govern as a “progressive,” but will be disappointed when Taft (who wins easily) turns out to be a conservative president with high respect for the U.S. Constitution. It is worth noting that Taft's wife, Nellie, does not trust the Roosevelts. (26) This particular woman's intuition will turn out to be very accurate – as we will see later on.

1. President Taft /// 2. Helen “Nellie” Taft – She sensed all along that her husband’s “friend” TR was an untrustworthy back-stabbing rat.

*Some newspapers mocked candidate Taft for being a puppet of King Roosevelt --
- but Taft will turn out to be his own man.*

THANKSGIVING DAY / 1908

TR VERBALLY ABUSES A 15 YEAR OLD GIRL

The pro-Roosevelt NY Times and a few other papers run a little story poking fun at TR for an incident which occurred while the President was out riding. The stories are light on detail, but evidently, the easily-offended TR publicly berated a 15 year old girl for violating riding etiquette. Several weeks after the incident, Mark Twain learns more detail of this latest manifestation of TR's mental illness, and expresses his anger in writing:

"I saw only three references to that curious Presidential performance of two or three weeks ago - the one where the Chief Magistrate treated a young girl harshly. One of these was in the New York Times. The substance of it, as I remember it, was to this effect. An article or editorial in the Sun charged Mr. Roosevelt - who was out riding in the country, with friends - with striking, with his "crop," the horse of a young girl who violated etiquette by riding past him. It was further alleged that Mr. Roosevelt strongly rebuked the girl, besides, for her lack of manners. Continuing, the Times added some elephantine attempts at sarcasm

.....

I could make nothing out of the thing. I could not make out whether anything at all had happened or not. There seemed to have been a Rooseveltian incident, but the size & style of it were hopelessly obscured by the Times' unhappy attack of clumsy & idiotic satirics. But we have a visitor, today, who furnishes what he claims to be the facts. He got them from a friend of the girl's father. To wit. The President, with these friends, was out in the country taking a horseback ride. Presently a girl of fifteen appeared in the rear - on horseback. She closed the interval, & was intending to ride by, when she recognized the President by his shoulders, or perhaps his ears, & slackened her pace & fell back a few paces. But the Head of the Greatest Nation on Earth was so affronted that he whirled about and "charged rearward," harshly abusing her and ordering her off the path.

Have we ever had a President before of whom such a story could be told & find believers? Certainly not. It would be recognized as a foolish & extravagant invention, a manifest lie; for we have never had a President before who was destitute of self-respect & of respect for his high office; we have had no President before who was not a gentleman; we have had no President before who was intended for a butcher, a dive-keeper or a bully, & missed his mission by compulsion of circumstances over which he had no control. Will the story be believed now? Yes, & justifiably. No one who knows Mr. Roosevelt will doubt that in its essence the tale is true." (27)

The easily-offended sociopath swung his whip at the little girl's horse and verbally abused her. The original account claimed that he missed striking the horse squarely and partially struck the girl in the leg. The New York Times made light of the incident, but Twain was incensed by it.

ROOSEVELT'S IMPERIAL PRESIDENCY SET A RECORD FOR MOST EXECUTIVE ORDERS

A presidential executive order is a directive intended to manage operations of the federal government and has the force of law. Though it is a constitutionally sound and necessary privilege; it was never intended for the purpose of expanding the power of the presidency beyond that which is granted by the constitution.

It was TR who established the dangerous precedent of issuing EO's as if they were autographs. For that reason, all 25 presidents previous to TR issued a grand combined total of just 1,252 EO's. But the big-mouthed crypto-Marxist tyrant cranked out 1,081 such decrees by himself!

With such a presidential precedent having been established by TR; fellow "progressive" Woodrow Wilson was able to break that record with 1,803; and distant cousin Franklin Roosevelt would issue an astounding 3,728. (28)

Teddy Tyrant loved giving unnecessary orders, and set a bad precedent doing so.

Cartoons mocking TR for acting like the King of America

SECTION 3: POST-PRESIDENCY

1909

RETIRED PRESIDENT GOES ON A “BIG GAME” HUNTING RAMPAGE

After 7 years in office, TR decides to not seek re-election. He entrusts his 'Progressive' agenda to his friend, William Howard Taft. Ever-hungry for the limelight, the fake tough-guy with the childhood inferiority complex goes on an African safari and again proves his manhood by killing every majestic creature that he can point a rifle at. The numbers of animals that TR and his group, including his son, kill for “science” is staggering.

More than 1000 large animals, including 512 big game animals and six rare White Rhinos, are gunned down in TR’s great expedition. (1) Tons of salted animals and their skins are shipped to Washington’s Smithsonian Museum, which has to pass some off to other museums. When criticized for the shocking number of animals so senselessly slaughtered, Roosevelt, in typical narcissist fashion, replies: “I can be condemned only if the existence of the National Museum, the American Museum of Natural History and all similar zoological institutions are to be condemned”. (2)

In “Colonel Roosevelt,” written by TR-lover Edmund Morris, even Morris cannot conceal the extent of TR’s delight in killing. An excerpt:

(Marching through elephant country) T.R. “cannot resist downing another (big bull elephant)—his eighth—and guzzling the ‘excellent soup’ made from its trunk.” Besides those eight elephants, T.R. killed “9 lions ... 6 buffalo, 13 rhino, 7 giraffes, 7 hippos, 2 ostriches, 3 pythons, 1 crocodile, 5 wildebeest, 20 zebras, 177 antelopes of various species, from eland to dik-dik, 6 monkeys, and 32 other animals and birds: 296 ‘items’ in all.” His son Kermit added 216. In Roosevelt’s account of the safari, African Game Trails (1910), he insisted that ‘we did not kill a tenth, nor a hundredth part of that we might have killed had we been willing.’ The numbers were evidence of their restraint, not of their excess.” (3)

Morris, as part of his ‘limited hangout’ defense of his hero, does give us valuable insight into the dark twisted mind of his soulless hero:

“He killed living things because he loved them. He loved them because their deaths infused him with life.” (4) (emphasis added)

Although the safari was ostensibly conducted in the name of science, it was really a self-aggrandizing political and social event as it was a hunting excursion. In 1910, TR, as expected, publishes a book about his great adventure, African Game Trails. Theodore Roosevelt is truly a sick man.

After a 10 year run of killing U.S. sailors and Philippine natives, ex-President Roosevelt took to killing elephants, rhinos, giraffes and lions as a hobby.

“He is hunting wild animals heroically in Africa, with the safeguard and advertising equipment of a park of artillery and a brass band.” - Mark Twain
(5)

Edward Gibbon’s description of the shocking excesses of the megalomaniac and degenerate Roman Emperor Commodus (depicted by Joachim Phoenix in the 2000 movie ‘Gladiator’), is very similar to TR’s well-publicized safari slaughter:

From the Wikipedia entry on Commodus:

“Commodus was also known for fighting exotic animals in the arena, often to the horror of the Roman people. According to Gibbon, Commodus once killed 100 lions in a single day. Later, he decapitated a running ostrich with a specially designed dart and afterwards carried the bleeding head of the dead bird and his sword over to the section where the Senators sat and gesticulated as though they were next. Dio notes that the targeted senators actually found this more ridiculous than frightening, and chewed on laurel leaves to conceal their laughter. On another occasion, Commodus killed three elephants on the floor of the arena by himself. Finally, Commodus killed a giraffe, which was considered to be a strange and helpless beast.” (6)

Commodus also had an inferiority complex for he could never measure up to his learned philosopher-king father, Marcus Aurelius. Likewise, the Columbia Law School dropout TR knows that he can never measure up to American Presidents of the past.

Some more proud photos from the great American Emperor-turned-Gladiator:

Hippo – Cheetahs – Antelope

Giraffe – Zebra – Decapitated Bull Elephant “Trophy”

1910-1912

TR VICIOUSLY TURNS ON PRESIDENT TAFT

TR had groomed Taft to be his “progressive” successor. But he is disappointed when Taft turns out to be his own man on issues such as tariffs and “trust busting.” Ironically, Taft actually breaks up more monopolistic trusts than

Roosevelt ever had --, a fact which should have made him beloved by the “progressives.”

But Taft ran afoul of TR when he tried to break up J.P. Morgan’s U.S. Steel, which happened to be a trust that TR supported. Once again, the exaggerated myth of TR being the arch-enemy of the Rockefeller-Morgan crowd reveals itself as public propaganda.

Roosevelt accuses Taft of not knowing a “good” trust from a “bad” one. Due to TR’s petty vindictiveness, the ideological differences undermine the friendship and personally hurt Taft to his core. The friendship between the two men is destroyed when TR launches continuous and personal insults at the honorable Taft, going so far as to question Taft’s “patriotism.”

Never before, and never since, has an ex-President so publicly interfered and undermined the Presidency of his successor.

TR’s political and personal attacks on his ex-friend Taft created a severe split in the Republican Party -- between internationalist “progressives” and conservatives -- which still exists to this day.

1912

MONEY KINGS OF NEW YORK USE TR TO RUN A 3RD PARTY CAMPAIGN TO REMOVE TAFT

To thwart the Republican Taft's re-election bid, TR, with backing from some big Wall Street financiers, quits the GOP and runs again for President as a 3rd party candidate (Progressive / Bull Moose Party). Many years later, a well-connected businessman named Benjamin Freedman tells the real story of how the historic election plot of 1912 originated in his father's home.

From a Freedman speech given in 1974:

Benjamin Freedman's speeches and writings reveal the "inside story" of that period in history.

"Jacob Schiff came back to New York - he was at that time head of The American Jewish Committee, - and in my father's home - I was a young man then- in the presence of many prominent men , names that are familiar to many people that are here. That is a fact. Now, what happened?"

They ganged up in New York, to get rid of Taft. I was a protégé of Mr. Bernard Baruch - a name that I think you are all familiar with. His father was a doctor, Dr. Simon Baruch, who had brought me into the world, and Bernard Baruch was a visitor at our home all the time. He courted my sister; one of my sisters. So the stage was set to get rid of the Republican Party and the Republican President and put in their own party and their own President. But it was very difficult, because, after the Cleveland Depression -President Cleveland was a Democrat- we had the worst depression ever seen anywhere. And that swept the Republican Party into power, because they advocated protective tariffs to protect the working man against the cheap labor of Europe and to protect the infant industries of the United States against foreign competition.

Mr. Schiff came back to New York and the stage was set. And I, as a young man, got into the act. What I am telling you now, I saw with my own eyes, heard with my own ears, but I make it brief. The stage was set: "How can we get rid of the Republican Party; how can we get rid of Taft" - and Mr. Baruch was picked out as the leg man. He was a smart man!

They set up the National Democratic Headquarters at 200 Fifth Avenue, which was the site of the old Fifth Avenue Hotel, now an office building, and Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Sr., the old man, the father of the one you all know, was made chairman of the Finance Committee. I was made his confidential assistant in liaison with the Treasurer, who was Mr. Rollo Wells of St. Louis, - the Andrew Mellon of his time. And I was right in the middle! I saw everything that went on, because I handled all the books that had the cash contributions in them. Mr. Jacob Schiff and the Jews put up the money to launch this Party, and they looked around for a man to put up as President. To make a long story short, they got Woodrow Wilson, a rascal who wasn't worth the powder to blow him to hell!

They got Woodrow Wilson, the man who had more ego than any man I have ever read about, they got him to head the Democratic Party. And they got into difficulties, because the Democrats only got the Electoral votes in the South; where the people in agriculture wanted cheap goods from Europe. But the North wanted the Republicans. They found out they could not elect a President in the United States. So, I handled the money; I was the leg man, the errand boy.

They trotted Theodore Roosevelt out of the political "moth-balls". They told him, "You are the indispensable man. You are the only man who can save the United States." And with his ego they formed the "Bull Moose Party" and Mr. Jacob Schiff and the Jews throughout the world - they got plenty of money from England - they formed the Bull Moose Party. And in that way they split the Republican vote between Roosevelt and Taft, and Mr. Wilson walked in with a minority of the popular vote - the lowest man -and I knew the inside of his private life, which I don't want to go into here-. But never was a lower rascal in the White House, and I've known plenty of them since that time! (7)

During the campaign, the “progressive” Roosevelt attacks the Republican Party -- which he had long been a member of -- and trashes local Republican candidates across the country. This enrages conservative Taft supporters, who then counter attack him as a self-promoting fraud.

Now free of having to work with Republican conservatives, Roosevelt’s “progressive” platform of raising taxes and increasing government intervention is virtually the same as that of the socialist Eugene Debs – but at least Debs was a pacifist.

1. Seated directly behind Roosevelt is New York financier, Jacob Schiff (gray beard). Schiff was America's richest and most well-connected Money King at the time. 2. Financier Bernard Baruch set up TR's 'Bull Moose' scam. 3. The famous photo of TR riding a Bull Moose has since been confirmed as a doctored-up FAKE. It was originally published in the New York Tribune.

1912

PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE TR PROMISES SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

In their relentless drive to take over the nation's Health Care sector, left wing Democrat presidents such as Lyndon B Johnson, Bill Clinton & Barack Obama; and the whole of the left wing "mainstream media" have always cited and praised the "Republican" Teddy Roosevelt for being the first to put forth the idea. One hundred years after his death, a New York Times op-ed gushes:

"Few Americans know that their most physically vigorous president was also the first major American political figure to advocate passionately for national health insurance...."

Roosevelt had little success in persuading Congress to enact more laws to improve health. Though he fought on, he found himself up against a host of entrenched forces: a public suspicious of governmental power, the judiciary's habit of treating social legislation as an infringement on individual liberties and the South's alarm at the growing power of the national government.

As president, Roosevelt was embarrassed that the United States had nothing comparable (to European nations).

When Roosevelt left office, his files were thick with correspondence from social activists, urban reformers and others who shared his belief that the federal government ought to play a larger role in advancing health and well-being. On a tour of Europe in 1910, he made a point of meeting politicians and social reformers who had put up the first government-sponsored social safety nets.

Disturbed by the Republicans' drift to the right, Roosevelt defected from the GOP, formed the National Progressive Party, and made a rogue run for an unprecedented third term ....

With the insights he gained in Europe and the help of American experts on health and welfare, he and his allies crafted one of the most socially progressive party platforms in American history. It called for universal health insurance; a national public health service; insurance for the elderly, the unemployed and the disabled....

There may be no better way for the country to honor his memory than to get off its duff and persevere until all Americans have health care.” (8)

Like all emotion-driven “progressives,” the Times writer fails to understand that the all-mighty state cannot “provide” things for “the people” until it first steals the money from “the people” to pay for all the “free” stuff! The most efficient way to ever achieve true “universal” health care is to allow a free, truly competitive market to work its magic. That’s something which we do not have in overly regulated, overly taxed America – thanks in large measure to the ignorant folly of big government control freaks such as Teddy the Terrible.

1. Marxist Obongo loves Teddy, as does the New York Times! // 2. It is Roosevelt-inspired government intervention – not any free market forces -- that is driving up costs and diminishing the quality of America’s health care system.

OCTOBER, 1912

A STAGED ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT ON TR RUINS TAFT’S CHANCES

In the fall of 1912, Taft still has a chance to win reelection; but that chance is about to disappear. Just 3 weeks before the election, an “October Surprise” comes in the form of an “assassination attempt” against TR.

On October 14, 1912, just moments before he is set to deliver a typically Rooseveltian 50-page speech, TR, we are told, is shot with a Colt .38 by an Anarchist fanatic named John Flammang Schrank. The bullet is first said to be a “flesh wound” that “lodged in his chest”. Afterwards, the story changes to that of a bullet “safely lodged” against TR’s rib, after having been slowed down by both his steel eyeglass case and the thick speech he was carrying in his jacket.

As far as bullet sizes go, the .38 caliber (a measure of diameter) is one of the larger size bullets. But “Superman” TR felt no pain?

TR takes a clean handkerchief to cover the “wound” as he heads for the stage, where one of his bodyguards is attempting to explain what has just happened to the audience. Someone in the crowd shouts out: “Fake! Fake!” (9) True to his self-promoting form, TR the drama queen wastes no time in proclaiming to the crowd:

“Friends, I shall ask you to be as quiet as possible. I don’t know whether you fully understand that I have just been shot.” (10)

The horrified audience in the Milwaukee Auditorium gasps as the theatrical TR unbuttons his vest to reveal his bloodstained shirt. Then comes the proud boast:

“It takes more than that to kill a bull moose.” (11)

Now the crowd is really buzzing as the legend of TR reaches new heights of super-humanism. The babbler continues before launching into yet another 90-minute speech about nothing:

“But fortunately I had my manuscript, so you see I was going to make a long speech, and there is a bullet - there is where the bullet went through - and it probably saved me from it going into my heart. The bullet is in me now, so that I cannot make a very long speech, but I will try my best.” (12)

In the days following the “assassination attempt” and preceding the election, TR blamed the now defensive Taft supporters for inflaming Schrank:

“It is a very natural thing that weak and vicious minds should be inflamed to acts of violence by the kind of awful mendacity and abuse that have been heaped upon me for the last three months by the papers.” (13)

Right on cue, Schrank claimed that the spirit of President McKinley had told him to avenge his murder by killing TR. In an open letter to the American people, Schrank writes:

“To the people of the United States: In a dream I saw President McKinley sit up in his coffin pointing at a man in a monk’s attire in whom I recognized Theodore Roosevelt. The dead president said—‘This is my murderer’—avenge my death.” (14)

There were indeed some Taft supporters who believed that the murder of McKinley in 1901, also carried out by a deranged “Red”, was part of a plot to install TR as President. This event makes Taft supporters look bad. Schrank's "dream", coupled with TR's whining about the "vicious attacks" against him, damages the Taft campaign while creating sympathy for the "wounded" and "tough" TR.

The very strange event is directly responsible for drawing many votes away from Taft. A reasonable person has to wonder if the assassination stunt and the McKinley murder were both staged by the same invisible hand that has guided fanatical 'Red' assassins since the days of the French Revolution; and has also guided the rocket-like career of TR all along.

Should the disbelieving reader be inclined to dismiss the staged shooting scenario as an irresponsible "conspiracy theory", your suspicious author here invites you to jam a .38 thick screwdriver through your chest and to your rib. Then, attempt to speak loudly for a full 90 minutes. Go ahead. Try it; and do let us all know how you make out.

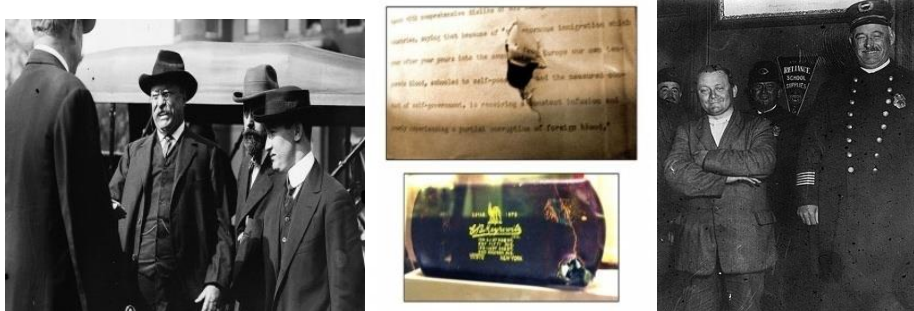

Before the days of video recording, pulling off a fake shooting stunt would not be all that difficult. Could the self-aggrandizing TR, and the powerful moneyed forces which had always swirled about the Roosevelts, have been capable of such political manipulation? Why not? Remember the Badlands Cowboy? Remember the Super-Cop night-walks?

Remember the false accusation regarding the USS Maine? Remember the Fairy Tale of San Juan Hill? Remember the staged "revolution" in Panama? Remember the Twain allegations? Remember some of the staged "trust-busting"? Remember the Fairy Tale of the spared "Teddy Bear?" Remember the highly photographed slaughter-safari in Africa? Remember the fake photo of TR riding a moose (staged by New York Tribune on TR's behalf)? This man and the forces behind him are truly capable of anything. If only Mark Twain had lived just two more years to hear of this stunt.

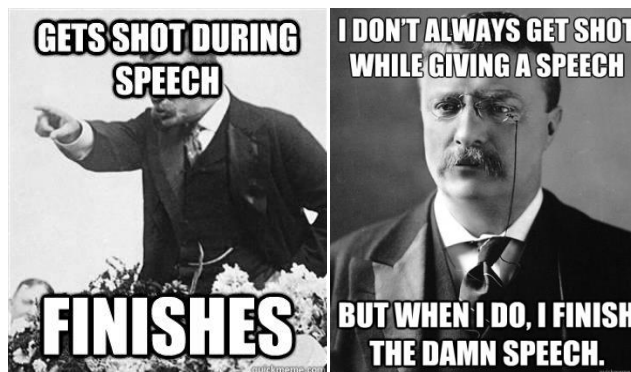

Schrank is committed to a mental hospital for the remaining 29 years of his life. The alleged bullet in TR is "never removed". That figures!

After the “shooting”, the sympathetic press hype of the “wounded” TR’s “heroic” speech sealed Taft’s fate. The original story of a “flesh wound” in the chest was later changed to “a bullet permanently lodged against a rib.”

1. TR just before delivering his 50 page speech 2. The magic speech and magic eye glass case 3. The would-be “assassin” Schrank and the police officers share a good laugh. What’s the joke, gentlemen?

To this day, the idiotic legend still persists. If TR’s shirt was “blood-stained” due to a .38 caliber bullet that was STILL “lodged in his rib”, then why was he not drenched in blood after his 90 minute speech? What type of super-human could speak for 90 minutes with a .38 slug “lodged in his rib?”

1912

WOODROW WILSON UNSEATS PRESIDENT TAFT, BECAUSE OF ROOSEVELT

TR does not win the election, but he does, with the help of this oh-so-convenient “October Surprise,” and exactly as Schiff & Baruch had intended all along, steal enough votes away from Taft to propel fellow “progressive” Woodrow Wilson into the Presidency with just 41% of the vote.

The curse that is the Wilson presidency brings us the creation of the fraudulent Federal Reserve System, the implementation of the Income Tax, the direct election of U.S. Senators (which essentially nationalized the Senate), America's invasion of Europe in World War I, and the nasty economic depression of 1919-1920.

Thanks Teddy!

WILSON -- ROOSEVELT – TAFT

The Globalist-Marxist shit-show that was the Wilson presidency was made possible by TR's vindictive betrayal of his friend Taft.

1913

ROOSEVELT SUES NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER FOR LIBEL // THE EVENT BECOMES A NATIONAL CIRCUS

It has long been claimed that Roosevelt, like his suicided late brother, Elliot, likes to get drunk, and often. When a conservative Michigan newspaper called the Iron Ore accuses TR public drunkenness in an editorial, the thin-skinned egomaniac responds in a manner in which no president, sitting or retired, has ever done before or since. He files a lawsuit for libel.

Jay Hayden --a reporter following TR during the 1912 campaign for the Detroit News – claims:

"I was told to board a train en route to the (Republican) convention at Toledo and find Roosevelt, who was reported aboard. Peeking into various compartments, I found the Colonel alone and reading. We had a sparkling half-hour of warm conversation before other visitors intruded.

"I scarcely had stepped from the train in Chicago before I began hearing that Roosevelt had been roaring drunk on the trip and had smashed dishes in the dining car." (15)

In a subsequent editorial, the Iron Ore's publisher, George Newett adds:

"Roosevelt lies, and curses in a most disgusting way, he gets drunk too, and that not infrequently, and all of his intimates know about it." (16)

Roosevelt quickly seizes upon the opportunity to strike back at one of his hated conservative critics. Knowing that someone is a drunk is one thing. Proving it in a court of law – especially when the alleged drunk in question is an ex-president – is quite another. A lawsuit is filed against Newett. The Iron Ore's attack thus plays right into his hands of the vindictive tyrant.

The following year, 1913, TR rolls into the city of Marquette, Michigan on the eve of the trial with 25 well-known lackeys he calls "witnesses". The town is abuzz in a circus-like atmosphere as the clown holds his usual court and gives autographs. He has brought in former rough riders as well as "respected statesmen" who had worked with him over the years. Newett's witnesses to TR's drunkenness are completely overshadowed by "the great and the good" that defend TR. Even Admiral George Dewey, who took Manila Harbor during the Spanish-American War has sent in a deposition defending the reputation of his former boss. The Fake News giants of the day get in on what is now a national circus. The New York Times condemns Newett for "wielding a malicious and wicked pen." The game is rigged from the start; and everyone knows that the plucking little publisher is about to feel Roosevelt's "Big Stick".

Newett's attorney tries to have other editorials making similar accusations entered as evidence that Roosevelt's drinking has been so widely reported that Newett couldn't help but think he was a drunk. But the judge would not allow it. Newett doesn't stand a chance and the bully Roosevelt knows it.

In court, the blustering big mouth dominates the dialogue, and reiterates that his drink of choice is milk!

Milk drinker only, eh Teddy?

It is believed that Newett has dozens of people locked away in area hotels waiting to testify that they had seen against Roosevelt intoxicated on many occasions. It is also rumored that a group of University of Michigan students are ready to swear that Roosevelt had been drunk during a talk he gave at the school back in 1911.

Meanwhile, behind the scenes, a telegram from New York arrives asking for the arrest of James Miller -- the star witness that Newett has set up to testify against Roosevelt. The telegram states that if Miller appears in Marquette, he is to be arrested based on charges of writing bad checks back in New York. The telegram is signed, "J.P. Reynolds" – the assistant district attorney. The fix is in!

Miller skips the country and arrives in Winnipeg, Canada. From there, he sends a telegram to the New York Times, which the paper actually publishes. In the telegram, Miller claims:

"Roosevelt personally directed a campaign to destroy me." (17)

When Newett finally takes the stand, he gives up! Roosevelt stands up and declares that he is now satisfied. He asks to be awarded a symbolic “six-cent judgment” – the lowest sum allowed by court. TR, in his usual sensationalistic fashion, has defended his reputation --- with lots of help from powerful friends and co-conspirators in government and the Fake News.

1. Teddy Tyrant and his entourage storm Marquette // 2. Roosevelt vs Newett -- The case was rigged from the start against the small-town conservative publisher.

TR dominated the courtroom while his lackeys threatened to arrest the key witness against him.

AUGUST, 1914

OUTBREAK OF WAR IN EUROPE EXCITES ROOSEVELT

Planning for “The Great War” (World War I) began at least 20 years in advance of the event itself. The real perpetrators of the coming mass slaughter are the overlapping alliance of Globalism and Zionism along with the governing chauvinistic elite of Britain and France. The main objectives of the war (concealed from the people) include the disintegration and subjugation of the German, Austro-Hungarian and Ottoman Empires; the opening-up of Turkish-ruled Palestine to Jewish immigration from Europe; and the establishment of a skeletal structure for world government – the “League of Nations.”

When World War I kicks off in 1914, the war-loving cowboy immediately throws his support behind the Allies (France & UK, but not so much Russia) over the Central Powers (Germany, Austria-Hungary & Turkey). Not to digress too much into the vast subject of “The Great War”; but it should be noted that Germany is the last of the great powers to mobilize its military. And even this was only after having tried to prevent Austria-Hungary from making war on Serbia; while itself attempting to make peaceful dialogue with the Russia-France bloc. (18)

A critical piece in The New Republic, based upon the description of events from sympathetic biographer Edmund Morris, tells of Roosevelt’s perverse excitement over the news of war (initially between France and Germany) breaking out in Europe:

“When war broke out in Europe in the summer of 1914, Roosevelt was beside himself with excitement. He danced about the Sagamore Hill library, squeaking, ‘You’ve got to get in! You’ve got to get in!’ to the British humanitarian Charles Booth. Both men recognized, Morris writes, that if Britain entered the war ‘America might be forced to ‘get in,’ to.” (19)

Sick bastard.

Though a Roosevelt-lover and an Establishment Fake Historian, Edmund Morris’s book, “Theodore Rex” still provides a disturbing understanding of TR’s insane love of war and death.

1915-1917

TR AGITATES FOR U.S. ENTRY INTO WORLD WAR I

Roosevelt denounces the initially neutral foreign policy of President Wilson, calling it a failure and citing the fictitious atrocities in Belgium. Then, as now, few people in America actually believe the stories about German troops bayoneting babies and crucifying women. But that doesn’t stop the false accuser of Spain in 1898 from not only slandering Germany with similar atrocity propaganda now; but also slandering those opposed to the genocidal war as “college sissies” and “lily-livered cowards.” (20)

In 1916, TR again interjects himself in a Presidential campaign, campaigning energetically for Charles Evans Hughes while trashing anti-British Irish-

Americans and German-Americans as “hyphenated Americans” who, according to Roosevelt, are being unpatriotic for supporting neutrality.

The war-loving Roosevelt ridiculed Wilson’s 1916 re-election slogan, “He has kept us out of war,” as being “the phrase of a coward.” (21)

Speaking before a Philadelphia audience in 1916, the wily warmonger states a big fat lie:

“I detest war,” and immediately follows up that absurd mendacity with the punch line:

“But if war came I’d have to go, and my four boys would go, too, because we have ideals in this family.” (22) (emphasis added, you’ll see why, later on)

Roosevelt’s bloodlust and love of war is so extreme that even TR’s modern day sycophantic biographers will begrudgingly acknowledge it – and then explain it away as the only minor flaw of their sainted hero.

TR gave credibility to ridiculous anti-German propaganda stories of crucifixions and bayoneted babies

1915

TR COMMITS TREASON BY COLLUDING WITH A FOREIGN DIPLOMAT
TO BRING THE U.S. INTO THE GREAT WAR

In a private letter penned in 1915 TR criticizes President Woodrow Wilson's policy of "neutrality" regarding World War I and also reveals his contempt for the millions of German-Americans who sympathize with Germany in its purely, 100% defensive war against the aggressive British-French-Russian alliance.

An excerpted from the February 12, 1915 letter:

"My dear Cecil.

Do not feel too badly over things. I am bitterly humiliated over what this administration has done. I am not merely humiliated, but profoundly angered by the attitude of the professional German-Americans. But don't forget, there are lots of Americans of German descent who do not sympathize with these men..... who are emphatically against Germany in this fight and resent being called German-Americans.

When a President misleads us as Wilson has done, some very good people tend to follow him." (23)

"Cecil" is Sir Cecil Arthur Spring Rice -- a diplomat who served as Britain's Ambassador to the United States from 1912 to 1918. In that capacity, he is responsible for British efforts to end American neutrality and bring America into the "The Great War." And, get this -- "Sir Cecil" is not only a close friend of Psycho Teddy, but he had actually served as TR's best man at his second wedding (TR's first wife had died) way back in 1886 when few people had even heard of TR.

This letter constitutes clear evidence that ex-President TR -- who is still influential within American elite circles -- is already treasonously conspiring with foreign agents for the purpose of dragging the U.S. into the war -- a full two years before the U.S. officially entered the war. To cover his ass, the snake purposely leaves his name off of the envelopes sent to his best man -- "Cecil."

From the very opening line of that same letter:

"Your two letters have come. My letters to you will hereafter go in envelopes without my name on them, so as to attract as little attention as possible." (emphasis added) (24)

No names on the envelopes, eh? It doesn't get any more treasonous than that. Conspire much, "Colonel" Roosevelt?

But the real kicker is the date stamped on the letter -- February 12, 1915. That's three full months before Lord of the British Admiralty Winston Churchill sets up the arms-smuggling Lusitania to be sunk by German U-boats (or perhaps a British bomb?).

So, once again, we can clearly see that even before the phony pretext that served to turn public opinion away from innocent Germany, TR and his crowd are already anti-German and pro-war. That comes as no surprise to your informed author here; but oh what a powerful argument it makes in contradiction of the fake history which holds that the U.S. government was originally neutral. No. Both the open-warmonger Roosevelt and the closet warmonger Wilson wanted to join the "The Great War" all along.

1. Ambassador to the U.S. Cecil Rice --- He and his buddy TR were upset with Wilson for not warmongering against Germany. // 2. The secret letter to "Cecil" proves that even before the Lusitania tragedy and other "incidents," TR's crowd was already hostile toward Germany and angling for ways to join the war in Europe.

APRIL, 1917

WILSON FINALLY DRAGS AMERICA INTO THE WAR

Little does TR know that Wilson and the British are already plotting to drag America into Europe's war. Wilson just needs to wait until after his 1916 reelection is secured and for a secret Zionist-British deal to be finalized. On April 6, 1917, Wilson, using the ridiculous pretext of "making the world safe for democracy", asks for and receives a Congressional Declaration of War.

Wilson's empty peace promise slogan was quickly abandoned after his 1916 reelection.

SPRING, 1917

THE MAD WARRIOR OFFERS TO LEAD A CAVALRY DIVISION IN FRANCE

Days after the U.S. declares war, TR goes to the White House to see Wilson. Now age 58, overweight, blind in one eye and with just several weeks of military experience from back in 1898 -- the bombastic psycho says that he actually wants to reconstitute the "Rough Riders" and lead them into battle himself!

“I told Wilson that I would die on the field of battle,” Roosevelt said later, “that I would never return if only he would let me go!”(25)

After their meeting, the ever-grandstanding Roosevelt told reporters on the White House steps about his proposed cavalry division – a ludicrous idea in a war which, by this time, has already proven the obsolescence of horse-mounted actions. Roosevelt talked up his plans to ride again, soon pitching his scheme to. Secretary of War Newton D. Baker,

Two days later, on April 12, Roosevelt began lobbying Congress to pass legislation allowing his volunteer divisions to fight in Europe. In his usual dramatic style, he wrote to the chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee that privately organized divisions could get the U.S. into the fight sooner than a draft.

“Let us use volunteer forces, in connection with a portion of the regular army, in order at the earliest possible moment, without a few months, to put a flag on the firing line,” he wrote. “We owe this to humanity.” (26)

When Secretary Baker denied his request to be granted a command, Roosevelt would not take “no” for an answer. Letters were exchanged back and forth; but Baker was unmovable – replying that TR’s idea was foolhardy and naïve.

French envoy Marshal Joseph Joffre lobbied Baker to let a division fight under Roosevelt’s command alongside France’s troops on the Western Front. But Wilson decided against it. He and Baker wanted to fight with a “people’s army,” representative of the nation, built by a universal draft. Wilson also hated Roosevelt.

Wilson wrote his personal secretary. “I really think the best way to treat Mr. Roosevelt is to take no notice of him. That breaks his heart and is the best punishment that can be administered. After all, while what he says is outrageous in every particular, he does, I am afraid, keep within the law, for he is as careful as he is unscrupulous.” (27)

Wilson thought Roosevelt was looking for publicity and “wanted to use the Army’s best officers to make up for his own shortcomings,” wrote Arthur Walworth in his 1958 biography of Wilson.

On May 18, 1917, Wilson signed the Selective Service Act (the draft). In a statement issued after the signing, Wilson, clearly sending a message to “Colonel Roosevelt,” announced that he would allow no special volunteer divisions in the war.

Roosevelt was incensed and depressed. Convinced Wilson had snubbed him out for personal reasons, he went back to trashing him in private, calling him in one letter “an utterly selfish, utterly treacherous, utterly insincere hypocrite.”

Roosevelt and Wilson – two peas in a pod!

Psycho Teddy – much like that character in the film “Dr. Strangelove” who joyfully straddled a nuclear missile in flight towards its target – either had a death wish in 1917, or perhaps was planning to stage another phony charge as he had in 1898.

1917

TR’S PAMPHLET DENOUNCES ANTI-WAR AMERICANS AS “TRAITORS”

As America prepares for its 1918 entry into the Great War, while Germany and Austria-Hungary continue to call for a peaceful end to the war, Theodore the Terrible, always looking for the spotlight, publishes a booklet titled, “The Foes of Our Own Household.” The insane diatribe can be easily found, for free and in its entirety, on the Internet.

TR's juvenile jingoism is so shrill in its tone, so dishonest in its accusations, so hysterical in its warnings, so hateful in its condemnation of "professional pacifists," and so dangerously bigoted toward German and Irish Americans that no description of this piece of poisonous propaganda can do it justice. It truly speaks for itself. A few excerpts:

"The man who still asks "why we are at war," or apologizes in any way for Germany, should look to his own soul; he is neither a patriot nor a true American, nor a lover of mankind; and the foes of his own household are the folly and the cowardice and the cold selfishness of his own heart."

"We should hold Germany in horror for what she has done. But we should regard with contempt and loathing the Americans who directly or indirectly give her aid and comfort; whether they do so by downright attack on our own country, by upholding Germany, by assailing any of our allies, by trying to discourage our people from vigorous, resolute, unyielding prosecution of the war, or by crying on behalf of peace, peace, when there ought not to be peace."

"In the long run we have less to fear from foes without than from foes within."

"If Germany now conquered France and England, we would be the next victim; and if the conquest took place at this moment, we would be a helpless victim."

"Let us cheerfully accept the draft, and gladly volunteer, if we meet the requirements, and if we are allowed to volunteer. Then in addition let each of us make up his mind willingly and cheerfully to accept any personal hardships that may come, in high taxes, in repeated loans and reduced income."

"Our supine inaction (prior to 1917) was partly due to the folly engendered in our people by the professional pacifists. But an even more important factor was the dread many of our politicians felt not merely of the German Army abroad but of German votes at home. The cold, greedy selfishness and short-sightedness of our political leaders were indefensible; and were due to the fact that the men who took the lead in the professional German-American movement sought entirely to subordinate the actions of the country of which they were nominally citizens, the United States, to the needs of the country for which they really cared, Germany. Now we are at open war with Germany; yet many of these persons supported of course by the professional pacifists continue to champion Germany's cause as against the cause for which we are fighting.

This is moral treason to the Republic, and all who engage in it, whether senators, congressmen, editors, or professed humanitarians, are in fact, although not in law, traitors, who have no right longer to be treated as American citizens. The time has come to insist that they now drop their dual allegiance, and in good faith become outright Germans or outright Americans. They cannot be both; and those who pretend that they are both, are merely Germans who hypocritically pretend to be Americans in order to serve Germany and damage America.”

“Many of these German sympathizers, of these foes of the United States (including not only men of German descent but men of Irish descent whose blind hatred of England makes them disloyal to America, and men of native origin, who are conscienceless politicians or who are pacifists or denationalized and therefore thoroughly unpatriotic) fear openly to assail our country; and therefore, they serve our country's enemies effectively by assailing England.”

“Any man who now announces that although he favors the United States against Germany yet he favors Germany against England is a traitor to America.”

“Weak-kneed apologists for infamy say that it is "natural" for American citizens of German origin to favor Germany. This is nonsense, and criminal nonsense to boot. Any American citizen who thus feels should be sent straight back to Germany, where he belongs. We can have no "fifty-fifty" allegiance in this country. Either a man is an American and nothing else, or he is not an American at all.” (28)

What else could we possibly add to make the case that TR is a certifiably insane warmonger and bully?

1. Roosevelt speaking to a crowd in New York, in support of US entry into the war, and in condemnation of “cowardly” pacifists and “traitorous” German & Irish Americans. // 2. The Foes of Our Own Household is the most mentally unhinged and hateful writing ever published by a U.S. president – sitting or retired.

1917-1918

ANTI-GERMAN BIGOTRY LEADS TO ABUSE OF GERMAN-AMERICANS

We have reviewed the type of hateful slander which the still-influential Roosevelt and other assorted warmongers smeared anti-war German-Americans with. TR himself tars these good and loyal Americans as “Huns.” It therefore is no surprise that innocent German-Americans are abused, harassed and even murdered by the type of jingo simpletons who worship “the Hero of San Juan Hill.”

As Europe was ravaged by fighting, German immigrants in the US suffered harassment, internment, lynchings - and even the humiliation of being tarred and feathered.

Irrational fear of “German spies” hiding under every rock spreads across the nation. German-Americans are hatefully tagged as “Huns” (a word which TR himself used) and “Fritzies.” Hamburgers are referred to as “liberty sandwiches” and sauerkraut as “liberty cabbage.” Towns and streets with German names are renamed -- New Berlin becomes North Canton, and in Cincinnati, German and Berlin Streets are changed to English and Woodward Streets.

The Dachshund dog breed becomes “liberty pups.” Frightened German-American immigrants “Americanize” their last names (Schmidt to Smith, Mueller to Miller, etc.) and only speak German at home States ban German-language schools and remove German books from libraries. Some German Americans are interned in work camps, and one man is even hunted down and killed by a mob.

It is not easy being a German living in America in during this time of demonic deceit and disgrace. And bigmouth Teddy’s nasty rhetoric about “treason” and “hyphenated Americans” fuels this dangerous hatred like a bucket of gasoline dumped onto a fire.

- 1. Interned Germans forced to build the barracks for their own internment camp.
- // 2. Germans were suddenly transformed into “Huns.”
- // 3. German-American, tarred and feathered as a “traitor” (a favorite term used by Roosevelt) for not participating in a drive to sell war bonds.

1918

TWO OF TR'S SONS ARE BADLY WOUNDED IN THE WAR – A THIRD IS KILLED

Roosevelt's four sons -- raised on the myth of daddy the war hero of San Juan Hill and wanting to live up to it and make "father" proud -- all eagerly volunteered to fight. Daddy Warmonger would have it no other way. TR expressed loathing for the sons of his friends who had not volunteered. "If they were mine I'd want to choke them," he said. They were nothing but "tame cats and mollycoddles." (29)

The Roosevelt boys distinguished themselves for bravery. In his review of a Roosevelt biography entitled, "The Lion's Pride: Theodore Roosevelt and His Family in Peace and War," historian Stephen M Streeter paints a clear picture of where the boldness (recklessness?) of the Roosevelt sons comes from:

"All in the Family: The Roosevelts' Obsession with War" --

"Probably no single event made a greater mark on the Roosevelt household than the Spanish-American-Cuban War. Roosevelt's daughter by his first marriage, "Sister," swooned merely upon visualizing the gallant Rough Riders. For years afterwards, Roosevelt's sons played war games wielding the very sword that their father had brandished in the charge up San Juan Hill. The war fever that gripped the nation in 1898 infected all of Roosevelt's sons, who later earned reputations on the battlefield more for their boldness than their cunning. In this respect, they emulated their father. Child psychology, Renahan notes, has affirmed that "attitudes are caught more than they are taught" (30)

Theodore Roosevelt III is both gassed and wounded in France during the summer of 1918. His injuries will plague him throughout the rest of his life – a life which will end in France during World War II.

Fast Forward – 1944: Brigadier General Roosevelt III, by his own insistence, will be the only general on D-Day to land by sea with the first wave of troops at Normandy. At age 56, he is the oldest man in the invasion. Just one month after D-Day, Roosevelt III, who walks with a cane and also has a heart condition, suffers a fatal heart attack. He dies participating in a war in which he conducted himself bravely, but recklessly.

Archie Roosevelt is also wounded in France in 1918, while serving with the U.S. 1st Infantry Division. His wounds are also so severe that he is discharged from the Army with full disability.

Quentin Roosevelt, only 20, the youngest of the sons, is killed in aerial combat over Germany – also in the summer of 1918. Just weeks before his death, Quentin (a real chip off of his old war-loving blockhead father) had written to his mother:

“I am now a member of the 95th Aero Squadron, 1st Pursuit Group. I’m on the front—cheers, oh cheers—and I’m very happy. ...”

“I owe it to the family—to father, and especially to Arch and Ted who are out there already and facing the dangers of it.” (31)

You see, young Quentin, engaged to be married, recklessly pisses his life away because he “owed it to father,” and to his super-competitive brothers “Arch and Ted.” In a letter penned by Arch and endorsed by Ted, the older siblings had hassled Quentin for not being involved in any fighting yet (this was due to a delay in deploying inexperienced pilots). In his defense, Quentin, clearly eager to make his older brothers and crazy dad proud, then writes to his father:

“I know that Ted and Arch feel that I am a shirker member of the family, and the trouble is, they’re right. The only thing is, I am certainly not responsible for it. I am going ahead with my advanced flying down here as fast as I can. However, they have not one single man up yet.... What Arch and Ted don’t see is that I really have done everything in my power to get out.” (32)

News of Quentin’s death is reported worldwide. The honorable Germans give the young lad, thought by many to have been reckless in combat -- a full military burial with honors.

Kermit Roosevelt is the only son to escape the war physically unharmed; but he will get injured in World War II (while volunteering to fight for Britain 18 months before the U.S. had even entered the war!) – and afterwards sinks into alcoholism and commits suicide.

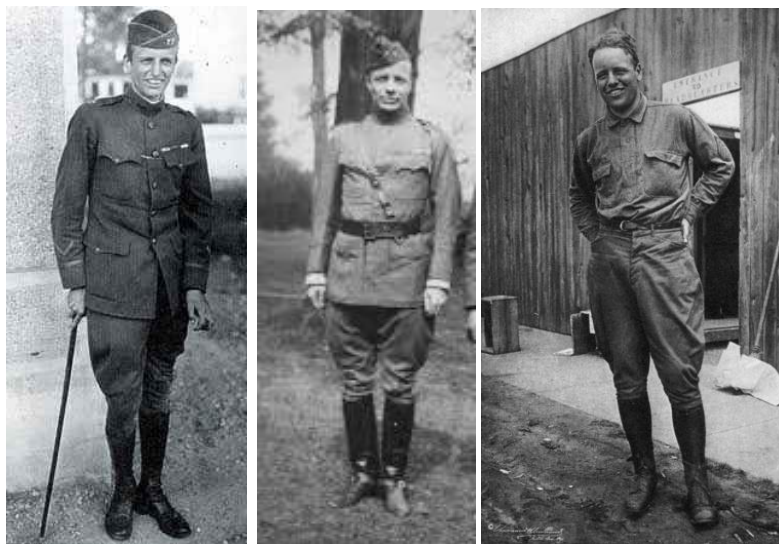

Roosevelt, by way of his insane and romanticized love of war, will have caused the deaths of two of his four boys (Quentin in WW I, and Teddy III, indirectly, in WW II), the lifelong injury of Archie, and an injury to Kermit in WW2. Although he would express great pride in his sons' battlefield bravery; after Quentin perishes in that dogfight over Germany, TR begins to express remorse:

"To feel that one has inspired a boy to conduct that has resulted in his death, has a pretty serious side for a father." (33)

Of course, he would not live to learn about Teddy III also dying in France, 25 years later. That death is also on the hands of crazy "Hero of San Juan Hill" whose boys wanted to live up to their father's fake image.

Back to 1918, in just eight months of action, an estimated 125,000 Americans will die from either direct combat or disease (mainly the Spanish flu). Hundreds of thousands more are gassed or injured, many of them very badly. But it was only the wartime death of his youngest son that gives him a taste of the pain that his decades-long warmongering had dished out to so many others.

ALL TO MAKE "FATHER" PROUD

1. Archie: Badly injured // 2. Ted III: Gassed and injured, then volunteers and dies of a heart attack in World War II // 3. Quentin: Killed in action.

* In later years, Archie Roosevelt becomes a hard-core, anti-Globalist, constitutional conservative and member of The John Birch Society.

Quentin Roosevelt, 21 --- died to please “father.”

JANUARY 6, 1919

TR DIES IN HIS SLEEP

It is said that Quentin's death distressed Roosevelt so much that he never recovered from his loss. An article published by the Smithsonian Museum's historical magazine, the Smithsonian, is very revealing. It is titled,

World War I Letters Show Theodore Roosevelt's Unbearable Grief after the Death of his Son

From the article:

“After Quentin's death, the once boisterous former president was more subdued, and his physical health declined rapidly. In his final days, Roosevelt often went down to the family's stables to be near the horses that Quentin as a child had so loved to ride. Lost in sorrow, Roosevelt would stand there alone, quietly repeating the pet name he'd given his son when he was a boy, "Oh Quenty-quee, oh Quenty-quee." (34)

Less than 6 months after losing his son, TR dies of a blood clot in his sleep. Teddy's own warmongering had killed his beloved son; and the subsequent grief may have killed him. How utterly Shakespearian!

What a pity that the self-adulating, controlling, blood-thirsty old warmonger never had such compassion for all the other sons that died in his "splendid" Spanish-American War, his Philippines War, his Russo-Japanese proxy War and now, the Great European War. But that's how sociopaths roll. They are unable to feel remorse until a tragic loss affects them personally.

1. Teddy's death marked the end of press love affair with him. // 2. But a new media hype for his equally ambitious distant cousin, Franklin (tall man) -- the 1920 Democrat Vice-Presidential candidate, would soon begin.

CONCLUSION

As we have reviewed, the actions which created the Roosevelt legacy are not what Thomas Jefferson had in mind when he declared: “That government which governs least, governs best.” To the exact contrary of what real Americanism ought to be about, TR’s continuing legacy is one of unlimited government expansion and intervention -- both at home and abroad. Roosevelt crushed property rights and snapped the “chains of the Constitution” which America’s wise founders had built.

The mere fact that the insane warmonger John McCain regarded Teddy Roosevelt as America’s greatest President is alone evidence of what kind of man TR truly was. He was a psychotic egomaniac whom the Globalists easily manipulated for the purpose of advancing their agenda of international intrigue and domestic big government.

TR initiated and gave great momentum to America’s transition from a peaceful republic into an imperial bully – causing the deaths of hundreds of thousands of Americans (and millions of foreigners) in unjust wars or proxy wars on all continents. America’s 100 year march of suicidal debt accumulation, confiscatory taxation, perpetual currency debasement, unnecessary commercial regulation, demagogic class warfare, uncontrolled & centralized Federal power, Globalist imperialism, endless wars and clandestine foreign intrigues, constitute the lasting legacy of the mentally unsound and thoroughly immoral Theodore Roosevelt.

Please write a review for “Teddy the Terrible” at Amazon.com – and see all other titles under Amazon author page of “M. S. King”

See following pages for other titles....

THE AMAZING WORKS OF “M S KING”

TOMATOBUBBLE.COM

OTHER BOOKS BY M S KING – GO TO TOMATOBUBBLE.COM

TomatoBubble.com

The Mind-Altering Internet Classics of Alternative History, Economics, Philosophy and Current Events

FOOTNOTES

SECTION 1

1. Search Term: teddy roosevelt I intended to be one of the governing class
2. Search Term: teddy roosevelt new york assembly wrote most bills
3. Search Term: teddy roosevelt walks police beat with jacob riis
4. Search Term: arguable that spanish-american war perhaps the most pointless war
5. Search Term: teddy Roosevelt i would regard war with spain from two viewpoints
6. Search Term: William Anderson, Mises Institute, Bully in the Pulpit
7. Search Term: battle san juan buffalo soldiers 10th cavalry
8. Search Term: teddy roosevelt the only way to get them to do it was to lead them myself
9. Search Term: teddy roosevelt's request for medal of honor was denied by the army
10. Search Term: teddy roosevelt i am entitled to the medal of honor and I want it
11. Search Term: speak softly carry big stick

SECTION 2

1. Search Term: william anderson, Mises Institute, Bully in the Pulpit
2. Search Term: philipine american war casualties
3. Search Term: theodore roosevelt association real teddy bear story
4. Search Term: teddy Roosevelt panama revolution colombia
5. Search Term: Roosevelt corollary
6. Search Term: eleanor Roosevelt Wed a Cousin & Had Her Wedding Overshadowed
7. Search Term: roosevelt wants to be the bride at every wedding, the corpse at every funeral
8. Search Term: Foot: <https://www.nytimes.com/2009/12/06/opinion/06bradley.html>

9. Search Term: ibid
10. Search Term: Roosevelt I have contempt he is hysterical, unbalanced, and untruthful.
11. Search Term: 1906 State of the Union Address
12. Search Term: ibid
13. Search Term: ibid
14. Search Term: ibid
15. Search Term: Jacob Schiff unless we have a Central Bank with control of credit resources
16. Search Term: 1906 State of the Union Address
17. Search Term: robert owen brought about by deliberate conspiracy for enrichment those who engineered it.
18. Search Term: Frank Vanderlip, there was occasion, near close of 1910 when I was secretive
19. Search Term: lindberg aldrich Plan is the Wall Street Plan. It means another panic
20. Search Term: The worst legislative crime of the ages is perpetrated by this banking bill.
21. Search Term: mark twain quotes about theodore roosevelt
22. Search Term: ibid
23. Search Term: ibid
24. Search Term: ibid
25. Search Term: ibid
26. Search Term: Pringle, Henry / The Life and Times of William Howard Taft: A Biography
27. Search Term: mark twain theodore roosevelt butcher ruffian bully
28. Search Term: Wikipedia number of United States federal executive orders by president

SECTION 3

1. "Colonel Roosevelt," by Edmund Morris
2. Roosevelt I can be condemned only existence American Museum Natural History condemned
3. "Colonel Roosevelt," by Edmund Morris
4. The New Republic, A Boy's Own Story, By Jackson Lears, April 7, 2011
5. Twain He is hunting wild animals heroically in Africa
6. Wikipedia entry on: Commodus
7. YouTube: Benjamin Freedman Speeches // Search benjamin freedman 1974 speech jacob schiff came back to new york
8. New York Times, Jan 6. 2019 Theodore Roosevelt Cared Deeply About the Sick. Who Knew?
9. the speech that saved teddy roosevelt's life assassination attempt 1912
10. ibid
11. ibid
12. ibid
13. teddy roosevelt it is a very natural thing that weak and vicious minds
14. john schrank letter people of united states in a dream
15. Teddy Roosevelt and the Marquette Libel Trial, published by the History Press
<http://www.mikelclassen.com> Mikel B. Classe // Roosevelt Takes Marquette
16. ibid
17. ibid
18. Search: Willy–Nicky correspondence /// Search: The Manifesto of the 93
19. The New Republic, A Boy's Own Story, By Jackson Lears April 7, 2011
20. ibid
21. "Colonel Roosevelt," by Edmund Morris

22. ibid
23. Search: Image 576 of Theodore Roosevelt Papers: Series 4: Recipients' Copies
24. ibid
25. Search: I told Wilson that I would die on the field of battle," Roosevelt said
26. Search: Smithsonian Why Teddy Roosevelt Tried to Bully His Way Onto the WWI Battlefield
27. ibid
28. The Foes of Our Own Household
29. teddy Roosevelt if they were mine I'd want to choke them
30. Stephen streeter All in the Family: The Roosevelts' Obsession with War
31. Search: Search: Smithsonian: World War I Letters Show Theodore Roosevelt's Unbearable Grief after Death of Son
32. His Father's Son: The Life of General Ted Roosevelt, Jr. By Tim Brady
33. Search: Roosevelt to feel one has inspired a boy to conduct that resulted in his death, has a pretty serious side for a father
34. Search: Smithsonian: World War I Letters Show Theodore Roosevelt's Unbearable Grief after Death of Son